GENERAL SUNG DINES WITH COLONEL TAKAHASHI IN PEIPING

The first picture of the British freighter, Unsworth, being abandoned in a sinking condition 850 miles off Newfoundland as a lifeboat from the liner Ascania, from which this picture was made, makes its way through mountainous waves with nine survivors. Seventeen men were lost earlier when a lifeboat from the Belgian freighter Jean Jadot first on the scene, capsized.

TENSION IN JEHOI EASED

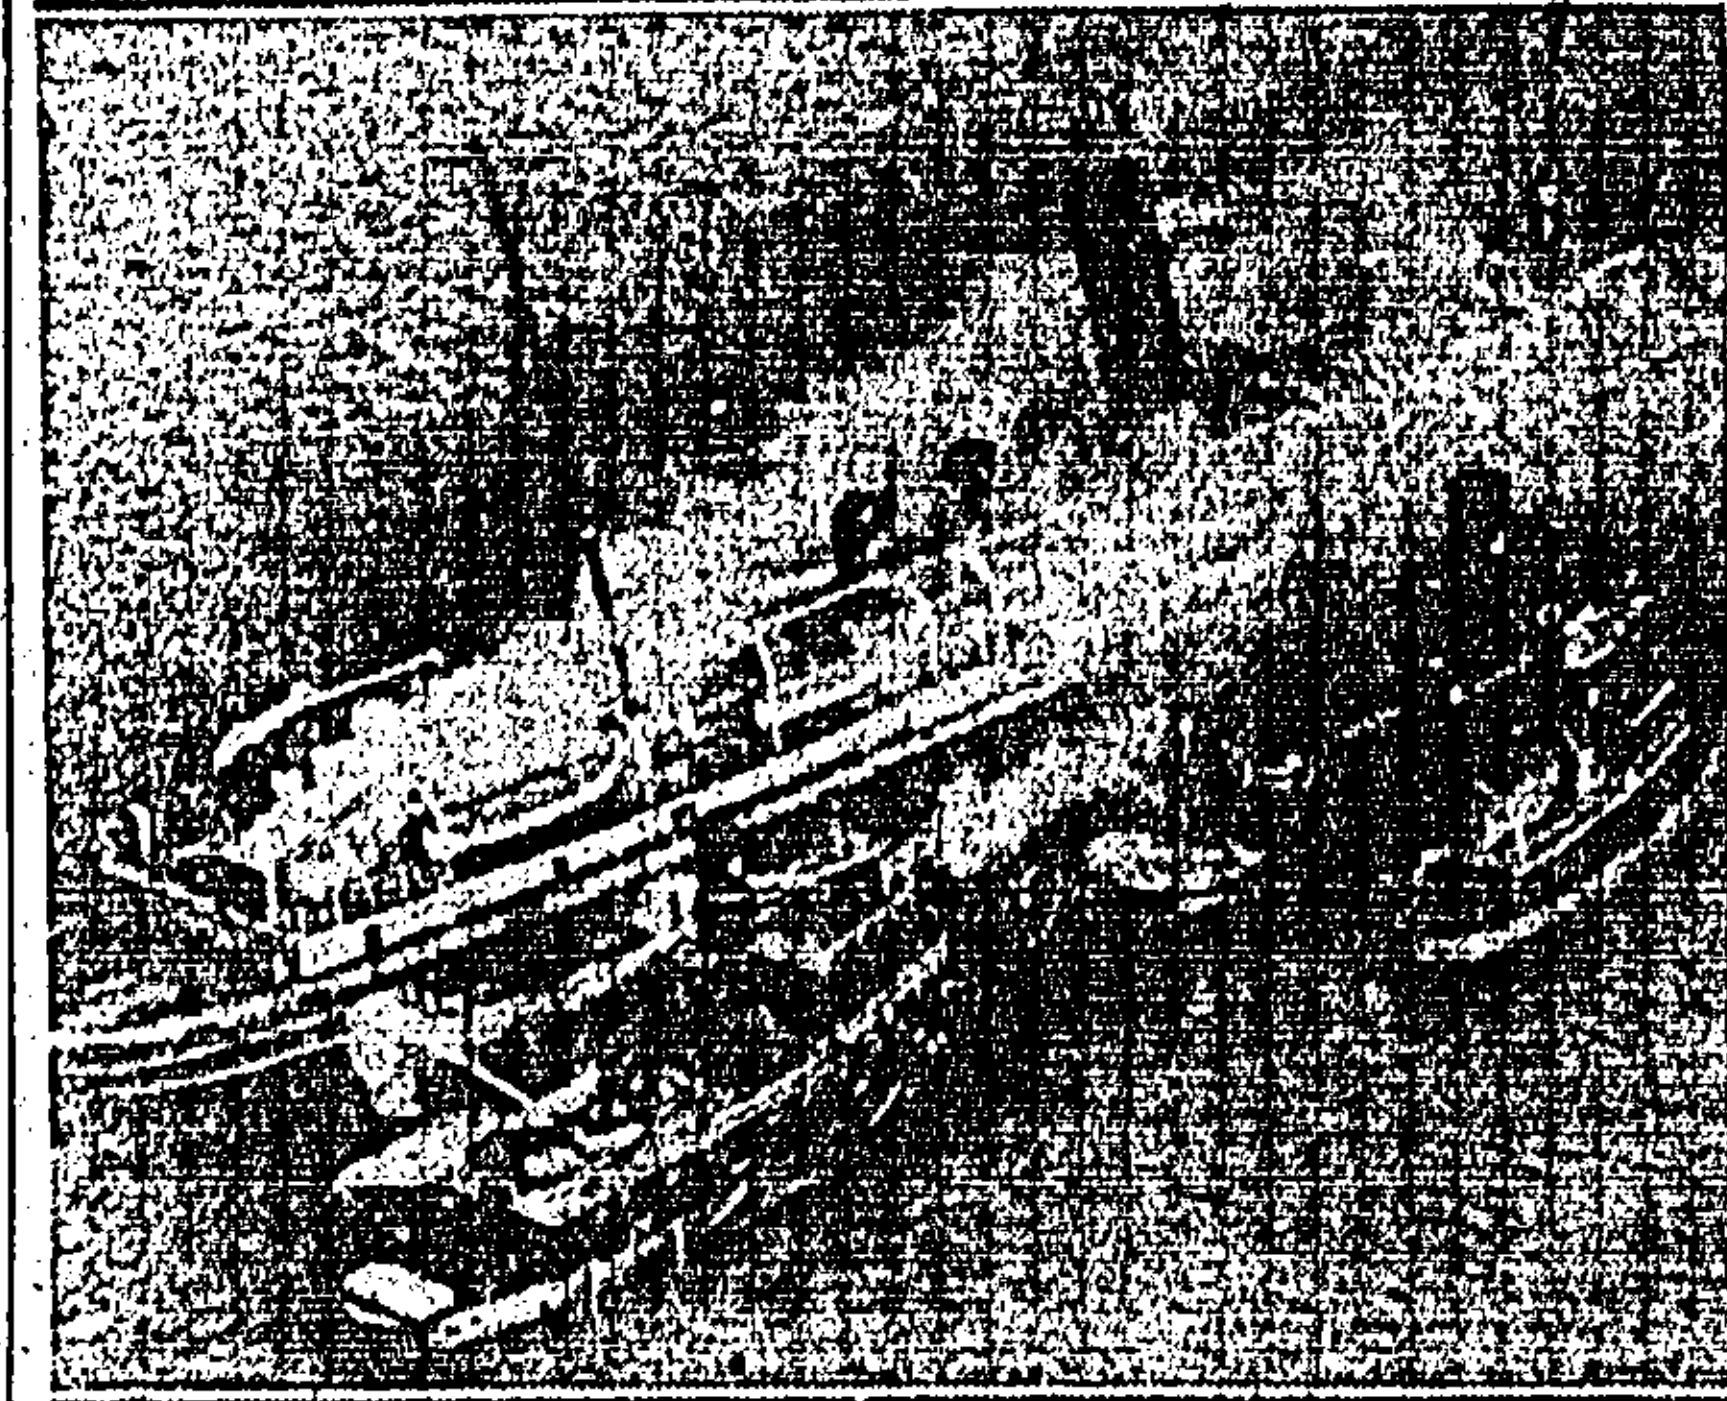

JAPANESE CLEAN-UP ACTION DELAYED

"PROBLEM OF PRINCIPLE"

Peiping, Yesterday.
Japanese military authorities here, in an interview, admit that a considerable number of troops are massed in western Jehol for the purpose of cleaning up one of the debated areas along the border of Jehol and Chahar.

They assert that there had been negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese over the area now in question, and that the Chinese had agreed to withdraw, but this had not been done.

The Japanese army is now determined to clear up this area, which is very small, containing only three villages, the chief of which is Chiangliang.

Fear of the spread of the flames caused the Boston fire department to order the blazing freighter Ontario to be towed from the pier and to be beached while tons of water were poured into the burning hold. The fire started at sea.

THE ABYSSINIAN INCIDENT

SOVIET STATION-MASTER SENTENCED TO DEATH

Sequel To Train Crash Earlier In Month

Moscow, Yesterday.
The station-master at Korug, on the Rostov-Tiflis line, has been sentenced to death in connection with the accident on January 10, when an express crashed into the rear of another train.
The engineer has been sentenced to 10 years imprisonment and seven other employees to periods of two to seven years, for criminal negligence in not setting the signals, and not observing properly-set signals.—Reuter.

BRITISH REPORT REVEALS NEW FACTS IN CASE

Severe Criticism Of Italian Officer

THREATENING ATTITUDE

Rome, Yesterday.
A British report of the recent Italo-Abyssinian encounter at Ualual has been issued. It severely criticises "the intransigent and unaccommodating attitude" of the Italian officer on the spot.

The statement, which is signed by Lieut-Colonel E. H. M. Clifford, the British representative, and other members of the Anglo-Abyssinian boundary commission, says that an Italian military plane flew over the commission's camp, where the Union Jack was flying, and trained a machine-gun on the commission, which had already withdrawn from the disputed area.

It declares that the Italian officer repeatedly checkmated the British members' efforts to find an equitable solution and threatened to summon several hundred soldiers if they refused to obey his requests.—Reuter.

HEAVY WEATHER IN THE PACIFIC

Empress Of Asia Meets Mountainous Seas

BIG FISH THROWN ON DECK CAPTURED BY SAILOR

Extremely heavy weather was encountered in the Pacific by the R.M.S. Empress of Asia, which arrived here on Wednesday last, en route to Manila.

So heavy were the seas that the ship, which, in normal weather, can reel off a steady 18 knots, was at one time reduced to a bare third of that speed. Indeed many of the officers of the vessel declare that it was the worst weather they had ever known on that run. The ship, however, showed her perfect sea-worthiness and came through her trying experience unscathed, though her funnels and paintwork generally displayed very clearly the battering she had undergone.

One curious incident is reported. During the storm, while the vessel's decks were constantly awash, one huge sea brought aboard with it a fine 3½ pound fish, which was captured by a Chinese seaman.

WEATHER FORECAST

The anticyclone has weakened slightly and moved eastward. It is now centred to the north-west of Shanghai. The local forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory last night, was north-east winds, fresh, cloudy.

LUNAR ECLIPSE A FAILURE

Heavy Clouds Obscure The Sky

NO OTHERS VISIBLE HERE DURING 1935

Last night's eclipse of the moon, to which many people in Hong Kong had been looking forward, proved a total failure; in fact the eclipse was itself eclipsed by impenetrable clouds. This was the greater pity for the fact that last night's was one of the only total, or even partial, lunar eclipses listed for 1935—and the remaining one will not be visible in Asia.

Enquiries at the Royal Observatory at a late hour last night elicited the information that, owing to the heavy clouds, nothing whatever had been seen of the eclipse, neither penumbra, nor umbra, nor totality.

KWOK CHUN HANG VICTIMISED

LOSES MONEY FROM CABIN

GENEROUS GESTURE BY LOCAL BODY

Kwok Chun-hang, the brilliant Hong Kong Interporter and Chinese National breast-stroke swimming champion, was the victim of ship thieves when the s.s. Changtse was berthed alongside the wharves at Manila, en route to the Centenary games at Melbourne.

Kwok, who was travelling by himself, left money totalling £10 and $30 in a valise in his cabin, but forgot to lock his cabin door when he left the vessel to go to a 5 o'clock cinema show.

POLAND STANDS FIRM

Delegate Leaves Room During Minorities Debate

Geneva, Yesterday.
Poland's attitude on the minorities question was apparently unaltered when the subject came up yesterday at the League of Nations Council meeting.

The Polish delegate left the room and returned only when the next item was reached.

Both the Italo-Abyssinian and the Iraq-Persian frontier disputes are encountering difficulties, owing to the Italians in the one case and the Persians in the other.—Reuter.

They state that unless General Sung Cheh-yuan withdraws his troops from this area the Japanese will go in to clear it up.

The matter is described as "a problem of principle" and after the area is cleared of Chinese troops the Japanese troops will not go further.—Reuter.

Dairen, Yesterday.
The Kwangtung army officially states that Japanese troops and aeroplanes have been called out for the immediate elimination of General Sung Cheh-yuan and his Chahar cavalry troops, which entered the Tatan district near Ku-yuan, in Jehol province, late last year, taking over and therefore disrupting the local administration.

Several previous demands to Nanking and to General Sung for the latter to withdraw not being heeded, a final ultimatum, which had now expired, was served a few days ago after raids by General Sung's troops on the inhabitants of the district.—Reuter.

TETE-A-TETE DINNER

Peiping, Later.

General Sung Cheh-yuan and Colonel Takahashi, the Japanese military attaché here, are dining together to-night and it is expected that they will endeavour to iron out the difficulties of the Jehol and Chahar border to their mutual satisfaction.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI FUGITIVE

GRAVE CHARGE FACED

FIRST U.S. CITIZEN TO BE EXTRADITED

Shanghai, To-day.

Gin Lem, an American-born Chinese, who was arrested on his arrival here from the United States on December 13 by the local American authorities, was sent back to Los Angeles yesterday aboard the President Taft to face charges of bringing a woman to America for immoral purposes.

He was taken into custody here on a cabled complaint from the Los Angeles authorities.

This is the first time that an American citizen has been extradited from Shanghai.—Reuter.

RUGBY CHAMPIONS HELD

1934—At Cardiff, Eng'and won 9-0.
1935—At Twickenham, draw 3-3.
In all the games played to date England have won 24, Wales 18, and five have been drawn.

The international army now policing the Saar Basin is commanded by Major-General John E. S. Dried of the British Army. His force consists of soldiers from England, Italy, Holland, and Sweden.

SENSATIONAL BOWLING FEAT BY PEREIRA

10 Wickets For 5 Runs Against University At Pokfulam

One of the most remarkable feats in the annals of local sport was performed on the matting wicket at Pokfulam yesterday when F. D. Pereira, the Colony's fast bowler, secured all 10 University wickets for 5 runs in 4.5 overs when playing for the Indian Recreation Club in a senior league cricket match.

The University totalled 12 runs, but only five of these were from the bat, A. R. Minu, the other bowler, sending down four maiden overs.

RETURN OF SAAR TO GERMANY

Question Of Refugees For League Council

NUMBER ESTIMATED TO REACH 20,000

Geneva, Yesterday.
The question of the Saar refugees is to be placed on the agenda of the present session of the League Council, on the proposal of the French delegate.

Herr Max Braun, the Socialist leader in the Saar, estimates that the refugees will total 20,000.—Reuter.

Shanghai Germans Celebrate

Shanghai, Yesterday.
More than 500 Germans last night celebrated the return of the Saar to Germany. Speeches were made by Herr Lahrmann, leader of the Nazi party in China, and by Herr Kriebel, the German Consul-General.—Reuter.

AMATEUR SOCCER INTERNATIONAL

England Tounce Wales At Wimbledon

London, Yesterday.
Though held at Rugby, England tounded Wales by 6 goals to 1, after leading 2-0 at the interval, in the amateur soccer international at Wimbledon, to-day.—Reuter.

MANCHURIA SWINDLE

BANK FRAUD REVEALED AFTER THREE MONTHS

FIVE MANCHUS ARRESTED

GOVERNMENT BANK ROBBED

Dairen, Yesterday.

The most astounding bank swindle in the history of Manchuria has been revealed by the police, according to a press release.

Yen 400,000 was taken from the Chinchow branch of the puppet regime government bank by five Manchus, who posed as messengers from a similar branch bank in Jehol City. They secured the cash by presenting an alleged official receipt for that amount.

The gang spent yen 2,000 in Peiping, but the remaining amount has been recovered at their home.

The ringleader, Pei Chuan, with the rest of the five, is under arrest after a three months' hunt.—Reuter.

JAPAN'S MANDATED ISLANDS

League Questions On Huge Expenditure

PORTS WHERE TRADE DOES NOT JUSTIFY IT

Geneva, Yesterday.
A reference to the Japanese mandated islands is contained in the report of the Mandates Commission adopted by the League Council.

It notes particularly the disproportion appearing to exist between the sums spent on the equipment of ports in the island under the Japanese mandate and the volume of commercial activity there.

The Commission asks for further particulars to be given thereon in the next report from Japan.—Reuter.

CHINESE LEADERS CONFER

General Situation Reviewed

Nanking, Yesterday.
General Chiang Kai-shek this morning had separate conversations with Dr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan, Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan, and Mr. Wang Chung-hui, Judge of the Hague Court of International Justice. The talks lasted a considerable time. It is reported that the general political situation was reviewed.

General Huang Fu, Chairman of the Peiping Political Council and concurrently Minister of Interior, arrived from Peiping by special train and visited Mr. Wang Ching-wei. The two leaders were closeted till noon.—Reuter.

THE KEY

By J. W. HARRISON

WITHIN half an hour Jackson would possess a fortune in precious stones. He thought of it as he bent over his ledger; but he gave no thought to the fact that, in order to acquire the gems, he would have to kill a man.

As he scratched in the ledger with his pen he watched his employer, the owner of the coveted gems. He was fussing about the counter now, a bright-eyed little man, arranging a tray here, smiling over a particularly beautiful ring. Every week-day, for years he had done exactly the same thing. Today was going to end differently for Cohen. Within half an hour he was going to die.

Jackson bent over his ledger and wrote. He hated everything about his job. He hated the slavery of it, the dusty books, the pen that stained his slender fingers, the long hours, the confinement. He hated the place as he would have hated a prison.

The establishment consisted of two rooms. The first, the sales-room, was divided by a cheap counter. Jackson's desk was behind, in a corner. The second room was in the rear. In it sat a safe, and in the safe Cohen placed all jewellery every afternoon at six o'clock just after closing. The safe was ancient, and would have been easy prey for a burglar, except for the extra precautions Cohen had taken. Actually the rear room was almost as invulnerable as a fort.

It was on the corner of the building. It was impossible for it to be reached from the outside, as the window was protected by heavy iron bars. The ordinary hollow spaces under the floor and above the ceiling were filled with concrete. The only door was of thick oak, reinforced by steel plates. At night it was held snug and fast by a tumbler lock, and it could be locked from either side. Only Cohen possessed a key.

Promptly at six, Cohen began the ceremony of putting the precious stones away for the night.

Jackson knew exactly what he was going to do. He had planned every move in advance, down to the smallest detail. Taking the stone was going to be the simplest part of all. He had only to enter the room before the safe was closed, get Cohen out of the way and help himself to the finest of the gems. In his scheme the iron-barred window and the strong door offered no obstacles.

Jackson meant to kill Cohen because kill Cohen was necessary. If he did not, the little merchant would sound an alarm too soon. Dead, he would not be discovered for hours, probably not until the next morning, possibly not until much later. The intervening time would give Jackson plenty of opportunity to put himself where the police could never find him.

Afterwards he would go to a certain corner in the Strand and there meet Larry Miller.

They had planned the job together. Larry lived by his wits, and lived well. They would go immediately to a fence whom Larry knew, and dispose of the gems. Larry would get his share, and Jackson would be done with him. It was all carefully arranged. It would not take long.

Jackson had a passage booked on an aeroplane to France. There he intended to buy a second-hand car and drive into Germany. His plan was to register the car under a false name and address, then use the registration as a means to enter Germany. He could speak both languages fluently.

He had provided himself with means of altering his appearance en route, by dyeing his skin and hair, and planned to buy new suits and other articles of clothing on his way. His intention was to keep moving, abandoning the car somewhere and then to establish still another identity for himself. When all was quiet he would go to Mexico, and the end of his plan would find him secure. Then he was going to live. Luxury would then be his.

All this Jackson thought over as he watched Cohen carry the trays of jewellery into the rear room. The counter was almost bare now. One more trip would empty it.

As Cohen paused, holding the last tray in his hands, he asked Jackson: "You about finished so I can put the books in the safe?"

"I'll be done in a minute, sir," Jackson answered.

The little man stood still, his shrewd eyes fixed on his bookkeeper. Jackson pretended not to notice, but he could feel the sharpness of Cohen's gaze.

"You've been makin' mistakes lately. Your mind is not on your work."

"It's all right to-day," Jackson declared, trying to control his voice.

Cohen nodded. Jackson closed his book and turned quickly. From the floor beside his desk he lifted a brief-case. From the case he lifted an automatic fitted with a silencer. He stuffed the gun into his coat and rose.

Cohen was waiting for him impatiently by the open door. Jackson handed the ledger to him. He turned, slipped it inside the safe, and began to swing the safe door shut.

"Wait a minute!"

Cohen straightened and turned toward him curiously. Jackson reached out and gave the connecting door a push. He wanted it closed, so no cry that Cohen might make could be heard outside. It swung into place with a click as he looked back at Cohen. The little merchant was puzzled.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

Jackson drew his automatic. Cohen's eyes widened grotesquely. He made a ludicrous picture, a shabby little figure with one hand half out of his pocket, his eyes staring wide. His face went pale in a flash, and he opened his mouth to cry out. At that moment Jackson pulled the trigger.

The report was a mere puff, followed by a thud as the bullet hit the wall behind Cohen.

Missed!

In one terrible second that followed Jackson stood stiff; but Cohen went mad. The little merchant screamed. He leaped forward and made a wild grab at Jackson's gun. His rush threw them both against the wall.

Then Jackson fired again, and this time he did not miss.

Jackson also stood still for a moment—long enough to satisfy himself that Cohen was dead.

He listened a moment, then moved to the safe. He selected the largest, finest stones, and dropped them into his pocket. It took him only a few moments; he had selected the stones mentally a hundred times already. He closed the safe, spun the combination, and turning his eyes from Cohen, stepped toward the door.

The door was locked! Yes, he remembered now. Cohen had set the catch while waiting for him, and the door locked automatically when shut. They key would open it, and Cohen always carried the key on his person.

He stooped over Cohen and turned the body, and immediately straightened. There was warm, red, sticky stuff on his hands! He paused, shuddered, hastily pulled out his handkerchief, and wiped his hands. He began the search again.

He clenched his jaws with revulsion as he pushed one hand into Cohen's trouser pocket. Failing to find the key he withdrew hastily, and probed into the other pocket. He felt a few coins there, but no key. He backed away and stood staring at the body. Again he wiped blood from his hands—and trembled.

He rolled Cohen over, and looked into the dead man's vest pocket. A heavy gold watch, but no key. He looked all through Cohen's coat, without avail. He straightened and backed away again, scowling. "It's not on him. He must have dropped it," he thought.

He wanted to find that key as soon as possible. He had not expected to feel like this about killing Cohen. Planning it out coldly, he had not even thought that there would be blood. He was nauseated and weakened by it; the presence of Cohen so still on the floor unnerved him.

Once he got out of this room he would be all right; but he could not get out without the key.

He looked all around the floor. His movements became quick and jerky; he breathed hard. He got down on his hands and knees and peered under the safe; he thrust his fingers into every square inch of accumulated dirt there, without finding it. He rose and peered all around; his breath was coming fast and hot. He examined the floor again, without seeing it.

Tunics After Dark Go To All Lengths

Amethyst Coloured Buckles Intrude DULL CREPE SKIRT

TUNICS after dark go to all lengths. Let them stop at the waist, wander down to the hips or adopt an accommodating seven-eighths effect. But they all go in for light and shadow—smooth glossiness and metallic sparkle. The skirts fall into soft dark folds. High lights settle on the tunic or blouse.

From whichever angle you look at them, they're the rare instance of luxury hand in hand with economy. Take the simple satin or velvet dinner frock of yesterday—or this year's for that matter—and a metal-plaided satin or taffeta tunic and you have new dresses for old or a frock with a dual personality.

Some tunic belongs to the tailored school, and is especially suitable to the full figure. It fits like a glove, with just the suggestion of a sleeve, a softened neck with squared tendencies and a triplet of straight seams from neck to hem. That full-length skirt with a backward flow might be fashioned in deep violet crepe remain to partner a cyclamen lame tunic shot with gold and violet. Amethyst coloured buckles intrude at the waist and neck.

Cape Effect Up-To-Date

This is modelled in sizes 36, 40 and 44, and will need 3½ yds. of 36in. lame and 2½ yds. of 36in. crepe remain.

Its neighbour is less formal. Her gold satin tunic finishes in shallow points on the hips, has a softened belt and a low-cut V neck at the back and front.

Those split sleeves with the cape effect and corage are up-to-date. Make the ankle-length skirt in a rich black satin and allow 2½ yds. of 36in. gold satin and 2½ yds. of 36in. black satin. It is modelled in sizes 32, 34 and 36. One of the new melon-shaped necks with a stiff, up-turned frill is the starred feature of our third dress. This has elbow-length two-piece sleeves cut on raglan lines and a graceful knotted sash encircles the waist.

White tissue hazed with gold rose is effective contrast to a wood brown or black dull crepe skirt. This will require 4 yds. of 36in. tissue and 2½ yds. of 36in. crepe. Sizes 34, 36 and 38.

THE PROBLEM OF WINTER SHOES

Apt To Feel Heavy After Summer

London. WINTER shoes are always rather a problem. All thick shoes are apt to feel heavy and hard after a long summer when most of the time we have worn sandals or light canvas shoes. Some of us are inclined to groan at the sight of strong shoes and thick soles. But Cantilever shoes are really comfortable and well made, and are to hand in a great variety of shapes and fittings.

Newmarket boots are almost a necessity for many occasions. You cannot do without them when you are fishing, and they are just as useful at a race meeting, when you are watching a football match, or walking through turnips.

HEALTH SNAPS

BEEF and Iron, taken as wine or in the tablet form, is strengthening for those who are convalescing from any debilitating illness.

When the doctor orders lactic acid milk—it is good for indefinite abdominal upsets—this is how to make it:—Boil twenty ounces of milk for five minutes, cool, skim off the cream, add one teaspoonful of lactic acid, drop by drop, stirring vigorously after each addition. Add water and sugar suitable to the age of the child.

Try this tonight for your insomnia:—A tea made from cowslip flowers (procure them from herb-ballet).

Sucking a pine tar tablet, three or four times a day, is helpful for chronic bronchitis.

Women Through Women's Eyes

MATCHING COLOURS IN ENSEMBLE

SEQUIN BELTS BRILLIANT

A GLITTERING sequin belt is a good accessory for evening wear; or, with a white or black frock, vividly coloured shoes and a matching bag are excellent. One woman has carefully matched her bright red shoes, handbag, lipstick, and nail-varnish—a scheme which is charming, with a white satin dress.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS FROM PARIS

Smart Presents For Special Occasions

HANDBAGS, DRESS-LENGTHS BRACELETS, NECKLETS

Paris. VICTORIA Chappelle has chosen some smart "presents" on a lightning tour of the shops. Here are her gift suggestions for any special occasion:—

A call handbag—one of the new heavy ones—with a matching belt. Smart collars-and-jackets for morning frocks, in stiff muslin or organdy.

Half-a-dozen yards of material—the shops will give suggestions as to how the recipient should make it up. Silk blouse, all big bow and ruffles, for afternoon wear.

White coney evening with fringe of monkey fur.

Marcasite clips, bracelets, and necklets—most effective and very new.

EASY TO USE

GREASE-PAINT is not difficult to apply. Just cold-cream the face and neck, wipe off the surplus, and stroke on the paint, working it well into the skin with the fingertips; then powder.

Use your ordinary powder, but don't rouge. Rouge is apt to come out hard-looking in a picture. No special shade is advised in the way of lipstick. It can be as bright as you like. A little cold cream rubbed on the lips will bring up the high-lights.

See that the edges of the lips are clean-cut. In this very important detail take a tip from the film stars and outline the lips with a special film make-up pencil.

HAPPY SIGHTS FOR HEALTHY APPETITES

YOUNG and old welcome the sight of a luscious home-baked cake. Light and feathery, with a toothsome filling—what could be more tempting?

Yet it was once quite an undertaking to turn out even a simple cake. Mother was forced to spend the better part of a morning, sifting and measuring and stirring. No wonder she made cakes only on special occasions!

It is much easier to bake cakes and other good things now that Simpson's Self-Raising Flour has eliminated all the bother. All the cook has to do now, is to add the liquid. The measuring and blending have been taken care of by a special process. And with reasonable care in baking, a perfect cake—pudding or pie—is assured.

EXPERIMENTAL S. CHINA FORWARD LINE SCORE FOUR GOALS

SCRAPPY LADIES' HOCKEY TRIAL FAILS TO HELP

SELECTORS DOUBT EVEN OWN CHOICE

MISS SMITH'S RAPID PROGRESS

The third Ladies' Hockey Interport Trial at Sookunpoo yesterday was the scrappiest game played since the selection of nine of the Colony team last Saturday. The selectors were given not the least assistance in regard to the two vacant positions—left-back and left-wing—and were even left dubious of their original selections.

No decision was reached regarding the vacant positions after the match, and it is understood that two changes will be made in the two teams for Thursday's trial at Sookunpoo. Miss P. Gittins, the St. Andrew's inside-left, will be given an opportunity on the left-wing in the Colony side as it is considered that Miss M. Remedios, the favoured candidate for this position, needs to rest her injured hand. The other change is at left-back where Miss B. Helbling, of the Hong Kong Ladies, will displace Miss M. Basto.

Outstanding Trio

Only three players were outstanding in yesterday's practice—Miss M. Smith, Miss B. Pope, and Miss I. Woolley.

Scoring a goal in the first half and three in the second to give the Whites a 4-0 win, Miss Smith proved beyond doubt that she is the most dangerous forward the Colony has since Mrs. Donnell's departure for home. The whole secret of her success is that she never hesitates to shoot for goal when in the circle, and all her four goals were scored from positions from which the other four forwards would never have dreamed of shooting.

As the situation now presents itself, the Colony is practically dependent on Miss M. Smith for a win over Shanghai.

She is not only a goal-scorer but also an excellent inside-right for Miss Knill. In fact, she probably passes to her winger too often, and this from an inside-right in Hong Kong!

Constructive Play

Miss Pope again gave a good exhibition of constructive play—she is probably the best half-back in the Colony. Yesterday she experienced no difficulty whatever in holding Miss S. Dalziel, who was deplorably slow and off form, and Miss Remedios. Her keen anticipation is her main asset.

Miss I. Woolley is extremely unfortunate not to have secured a place in the team. She is a determined tackler, has good anticipation, and knows what her wing is for. Yesterday she proved a stumbling block to Miss Knill, who was given few opportunities.

Miss Xavier was another in the "Colours" team who distinguished herself. Her spilling was good, but her distribution needs improvement.

Positions Very Open

Miss Walker was better than Miss Fowler on yesterday's display, but she was again slow and failed to live up to her promise of last Saturday. It very much looks as if it will be a choice between Miss Walker and Miss Helbling.

Miss Brown and an advantage over Mr. Remedios in that the latter was nursing an injured hand, but she failed to take the opportunity, and neither player was more impressive than the other.

The teams were: Whites—Mrs. R. Rose (St. Andrew's); A. Fowler ("Y" Ladies); M. Basto (Recreio Ladies); B. Pope (Hong Kong Ladies); J. Wong (St. Andrew's Ladies); M. Brown (C.B.A. Ladies); E. Knill (C.B.A. Ladies); M. Smith (O. B. School); M. Woolley (St. Andrew's Ladies); S. Dalziel ("Y" Ladies); and M. Remedios (Recreio Ladies). Colours—M. Baekott (Hong Kong Ladies); E. M. Gray (Hong Kong Ladies); F. K. Walker (C.B.A. Ladies); E. Knill (C.B.A. Ladies); M. Xavier (Recreio Ladies); I. Woolley (St. Andrew's Ladies); Miss M. Marsh (Hong Kong Ladies); Mrs. P. M. Harrop (Hong Kong Ladies); P. McCaw ("Y" Ladies); P. Gittins (St. Andrew's Ladies); and O. Brown ("Y" Ladies).

NAVY RETAIN PROUD RUGBY RECORD

ARMY WELL BEATEN IN TRIANGULAR SERIES

HAMMETT MAN OF MATCH

THE Royal Navy retain their brilliant 100 per cent. record in the Triangular Rugby Tournament yesterday when they swamped the Army in the final game of the series by three goals and five tries (30 points) to a try (3 points) on the Club ground.

The game was witnessed by fairly large gathering of spectators including His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Frederick Charles Dreyer, His Excellency the General Officer Commanding, Major-General O. C. Borrett, Captain E. Manners, R.N., was also present.

The Army started off well, but, in spite of brilliant tackling by the backs, they were unable to stave off the expected defeat. HAMMETT WAS UNDOUBTEDLY THE MAN OF THE DAY. HE PENETRATED THE ARMY DEFENCE ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS, HIS POWERFUL HAND-OFF AND WEIGHT CARRYING HIM THROUGH.

INTERPORTERS ROUT REST TEAM IN FAST GAME

Three Quarters Show Good Combination

LAMMERT AMONG BACKS

The Hong Kong Interport rugby fifteen, playing together for the first time yesterday, easily accounted for the Rest, by six goals and three tries (39 points) to two tries (6 points) on the Club ground.

The Interport team were much faster off the mark than their opponents and on more than one occasion their threequarters had passed the Rest defence before the latter had awakened to the fact that the Interporters were attacking.

Rigg was transferred from the threequarter line to the full-back position, and Lammert was brought up in support of McGilchrist, this forming one of the most formidable combinations seen on the ground for some time.

Griffiths' Failing

On the other winger Griffiths and Archer worked splendidly together with the exception of the first 15 minutes in the second half when Griffiths was inclined to hang on to the ball.

Meeko did not start off too well and several of his passes were wild, but Hutchison, at stand-off half, was very good, initiating several dazzling movements.

Bradford, McLellan, Walkden and Robertson were the pick of the forwards.

Robertson, who played as a second-row forward for the first time this season, was an undoubted success, being seen in several combined rushes with Bradford and Walkden.

Rigg, at full-back, displayed a safe pair of hands and kicked a good length ball.

In the second half when he was brought up as right-centre threequarter in support of Archer, he formed the third of a dangerous trio, with Lammert and McGilchrist.

Archer's Good Display

Archer displayed a fine turn of speed on the right-wing and often had the opposing defence baffled by his clever side-stepping. He combined well with his inside man, while his defence has improved considerably.

Lieut. Comdr. Dandy referred to and the teams were: Interport XV—G. P. Lammert; H. C. Archer; W. H. B. Rigg; R. Griffiths; and H. R. McGilchrist; J. Hutchison; W. E. Peers; H. O. Bramble; I. H. Bradford; L. C. Robertson; D. McLellan; J. C. Millar; and K. A. Munro. Rest—R. Goldman (Club); A. B. Gotsam (Medway); D. A. Coppin (Club); A. B. Loxham (Medway); M. A. Rowlandson (Cornwall); M. W. Turner (Club); A. B. Lloyd (Cornwall); Lieut. Cooper (Medway); R. G. Charles (Club); A. B. Burrows (Medway); S. H. Garrod (Club); D. A. Cummings (Club); G. A. Stewart (Club); D. G. Barlow (Club); and Lieut. Johns (Cornwall).

WATSON MAKES FINE RECOVERY TO WIN TITLE

ALMOST COUNTED OUT

FERRIS WINS TWO CROWNS IN FLEET BOXING

Some excellent boxing was seen at the China Fleet Club Theatre last night when the China Fleet Open Boxing Championships were held before a full house, which included His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Frederick Charles Dreyer, His Excellency the General Officer Commanding the Troops, Major-General O. C. Borrett, Col. F. P. Noworthy, G. S. O. 1 China Command, and Captain Errol Manners, Chairman of the China Fleet Boxing Association.

With the exception of the Featherweight Championship, there were no knock-outs in the preliminary rounds, which were, on the whole, dull and not to be compared in any way with the finals.

The best bout of the evening was the Lightweight Championship which was won by O. Sea. Watson, of H.M.S. Defender, who gained a technical knock-out decision over Mrs. Olliver, of H.M.S. Adventure, after a remarkable recovery and after being nearly counted out.

Lack Of Inches

Watson was the aggressor throughout and in the opening round, he forced Olliver into several toe-to-toe exchanges, in which he came off second best. Watson was the better of the two in the clinches, when he got in several powerful short-arm jabs to the body, but once out of them, Olliver's reach had a telling effect. The second round started sensationally, Watson walking right into a terrific right swing which lifted (Continued on Page 17).

HOCKEY LOSS

Passing Of Promising Lady Custodian

Hockey players throughout the Colony will hear with regret of the death of Miss Geraldine Pollock da Rosa, the 17-year-old Recreio goalkeeper in the Caer Clark Cup series and, until her illness, a serious contender for a place in the Interport side.

There was no keener lady player in the Colony and certainly not one with such signs of promise.

Miss da Rosa had been suffering from typhoid and malaria for the past two weeks and passed away at 4 p.m. yesterday at the St. Paul's Hospital.

MEDWAY, LOWER DECK WIN

Y.M.C.A. Fail To Settle Down

Playing with ten men on each side, both teams were without a inside-left, the Medway Lower Deck defeated a hockey team from the Y.M.C.A. by 3 goals to 1 at King's Park yesterday.

Although appearing to be the stronger team the "Y" were unable to get going, this was partly due to the safe opposing half-back line who played a very strong defensive game.

"Y" LADIES BEAT SAINTS

New Centre Forward Scores Goal

A very scrappy game was witnessed at King's Park yesterday when the "Y" Ladies' second hockey team defeated the St. Andrews' Ladies' second eleven by 3 goals to 1, after leading 2 nil at half-time.

Mrs. D. Kayll, the "Y" centre-forward, played a much improved game and was seen leading the forwards in many dangerous attacks. She has speed, a very hard hit, and good distribution, but while on the offensive she, however, lacks ball control.

MERITORIOUS WIN OVER CLUB

WONG MEE-SHUN SHOWS BEST FORM

PERFECT APPROACH MOVEMENTS

SOUTH China "A" secured a meritorious victory over the Club on their own ground yesterday by 4 goals to 1.

The Club were without Pote-Hunt, and the absence of Wong Wing and Ip Pak-wa necessitated several changes in South China's line-up, Tang Yat-ming being brought into the team in place of Wong, and Lau Hing-choi coming in as pivot.

The revised forward-line, with the inclusion of Wong Mee-shun, initiated some outstandingly clever moves, and, although the combination of wing and inside players was not as apparent as usual, the understanding and control demonstrated by the inside trio was more than sufficient atonement for this failing.

Perhaps because of his non-inclusion in the forthcoming Colony trial, Wong Mee-shun was at the peak of his form and his evolutions played no mean part in the South China win. Tam Kong-pak was also well to the fore in the attacking phases and his aptitude for snapshots from unconventional positions was given ample range during the game.

The outstanding quality of the South China attack, however, was not so much in the individual as the collective movements in approach. Whether the style was close-worked or strung-out, accuracy in the passes was well evident, and, once in the right motion, almost inevitably found its objective, though it deteriorated somewhat in the later stages with the improvement of the Club attack.

Bickford Pleases

Bickford's display justified his selection as one of the Interport "probables," his efforts being held well in control with his finishing work neat and decisive.

Howe, on the other hand, was not so good. He, however, had the undivided attention of Lau Hing-choi for the majority of the game, to which was coupled an extra watchfulness on the part of Li Tin-sang whenever Howe shaped for a shot at goal.

Li Tin-sang, like Sid Strange for the Club, was the focal point for the opposing attack, both players constituting the only really effective defensive opposition in their respective teams.

The South China halves allowed the Club wingmen a little too much scope, but effectively attended to the inside-forwards, including in their repertoire some clever distributive work, particularly Lee Kwok-wai.

In the actual distribution of play the teams had quite an even share, for though South China dominated the first-half attack, their second stage efforts were lacking, due to a pleasing resuscitation on the part of the Club forwards in the attack. The Club started strongly on the attack from the commencement, but good work by Li Ting-sang and Lau Mau eased the pressure and sent the Chinese away in their turn.

Strange Holds Up Tam

Wong Mee-shun, taking the ball through, cleverly flashed over a nice pass to Tam, but the latter was slow and Strange intervened in the nick of time to clear to Howe. Howe completed a nice run, but his goal-ward shot was intercepted by Lee, and Fowler's following attempt went well outside the South China goal.

Tay Quee-ling broke away with a fast wing-run, and Wong Mee-shun, taking possession of his centre, slammed in a fast drive at Rodger, who, however, held it safely and made a good clearance.

Chinese Open Scoring

An intended centre from Two Kwai-shing brought Rodger out to clear with his hands, but Wong retrieved the ball and hooked it across to Tam Kong-pak who sent it in first time into the net.

At the other end Ernie Strange very nearly equalised with an unexpected lob-shot which struck the cross-bar, but Tang cleared effectively to set his forwards going once more.

A rather weak corner clearance by the Club defence was returned with speed by Lau Hing-choi, but Rodger managed to reach the ball in time. He failed to hold the ball, however, and Tam slammed it back from the rebound, Rodger luckily intervening between it and the goal.

Lincolns Improve

The Lincolns were somewhat more aggressive after the interval. Marques making a remarkable dive to concede a corner from a hard shot by Ridley which appeared to be a goal all the way. Fifteen minutes after the commencement, however, Ridley reduced the deficit when he headed in a centre from Baldry.

This revival was but short-lived, however, for the next moment A. V. Gosano deflected a shot back to Bertie with his head and his brother sent in a smashing shot which beat Meaken all ends up.

Rainbow Beat Oswald In Submarine Cup Final

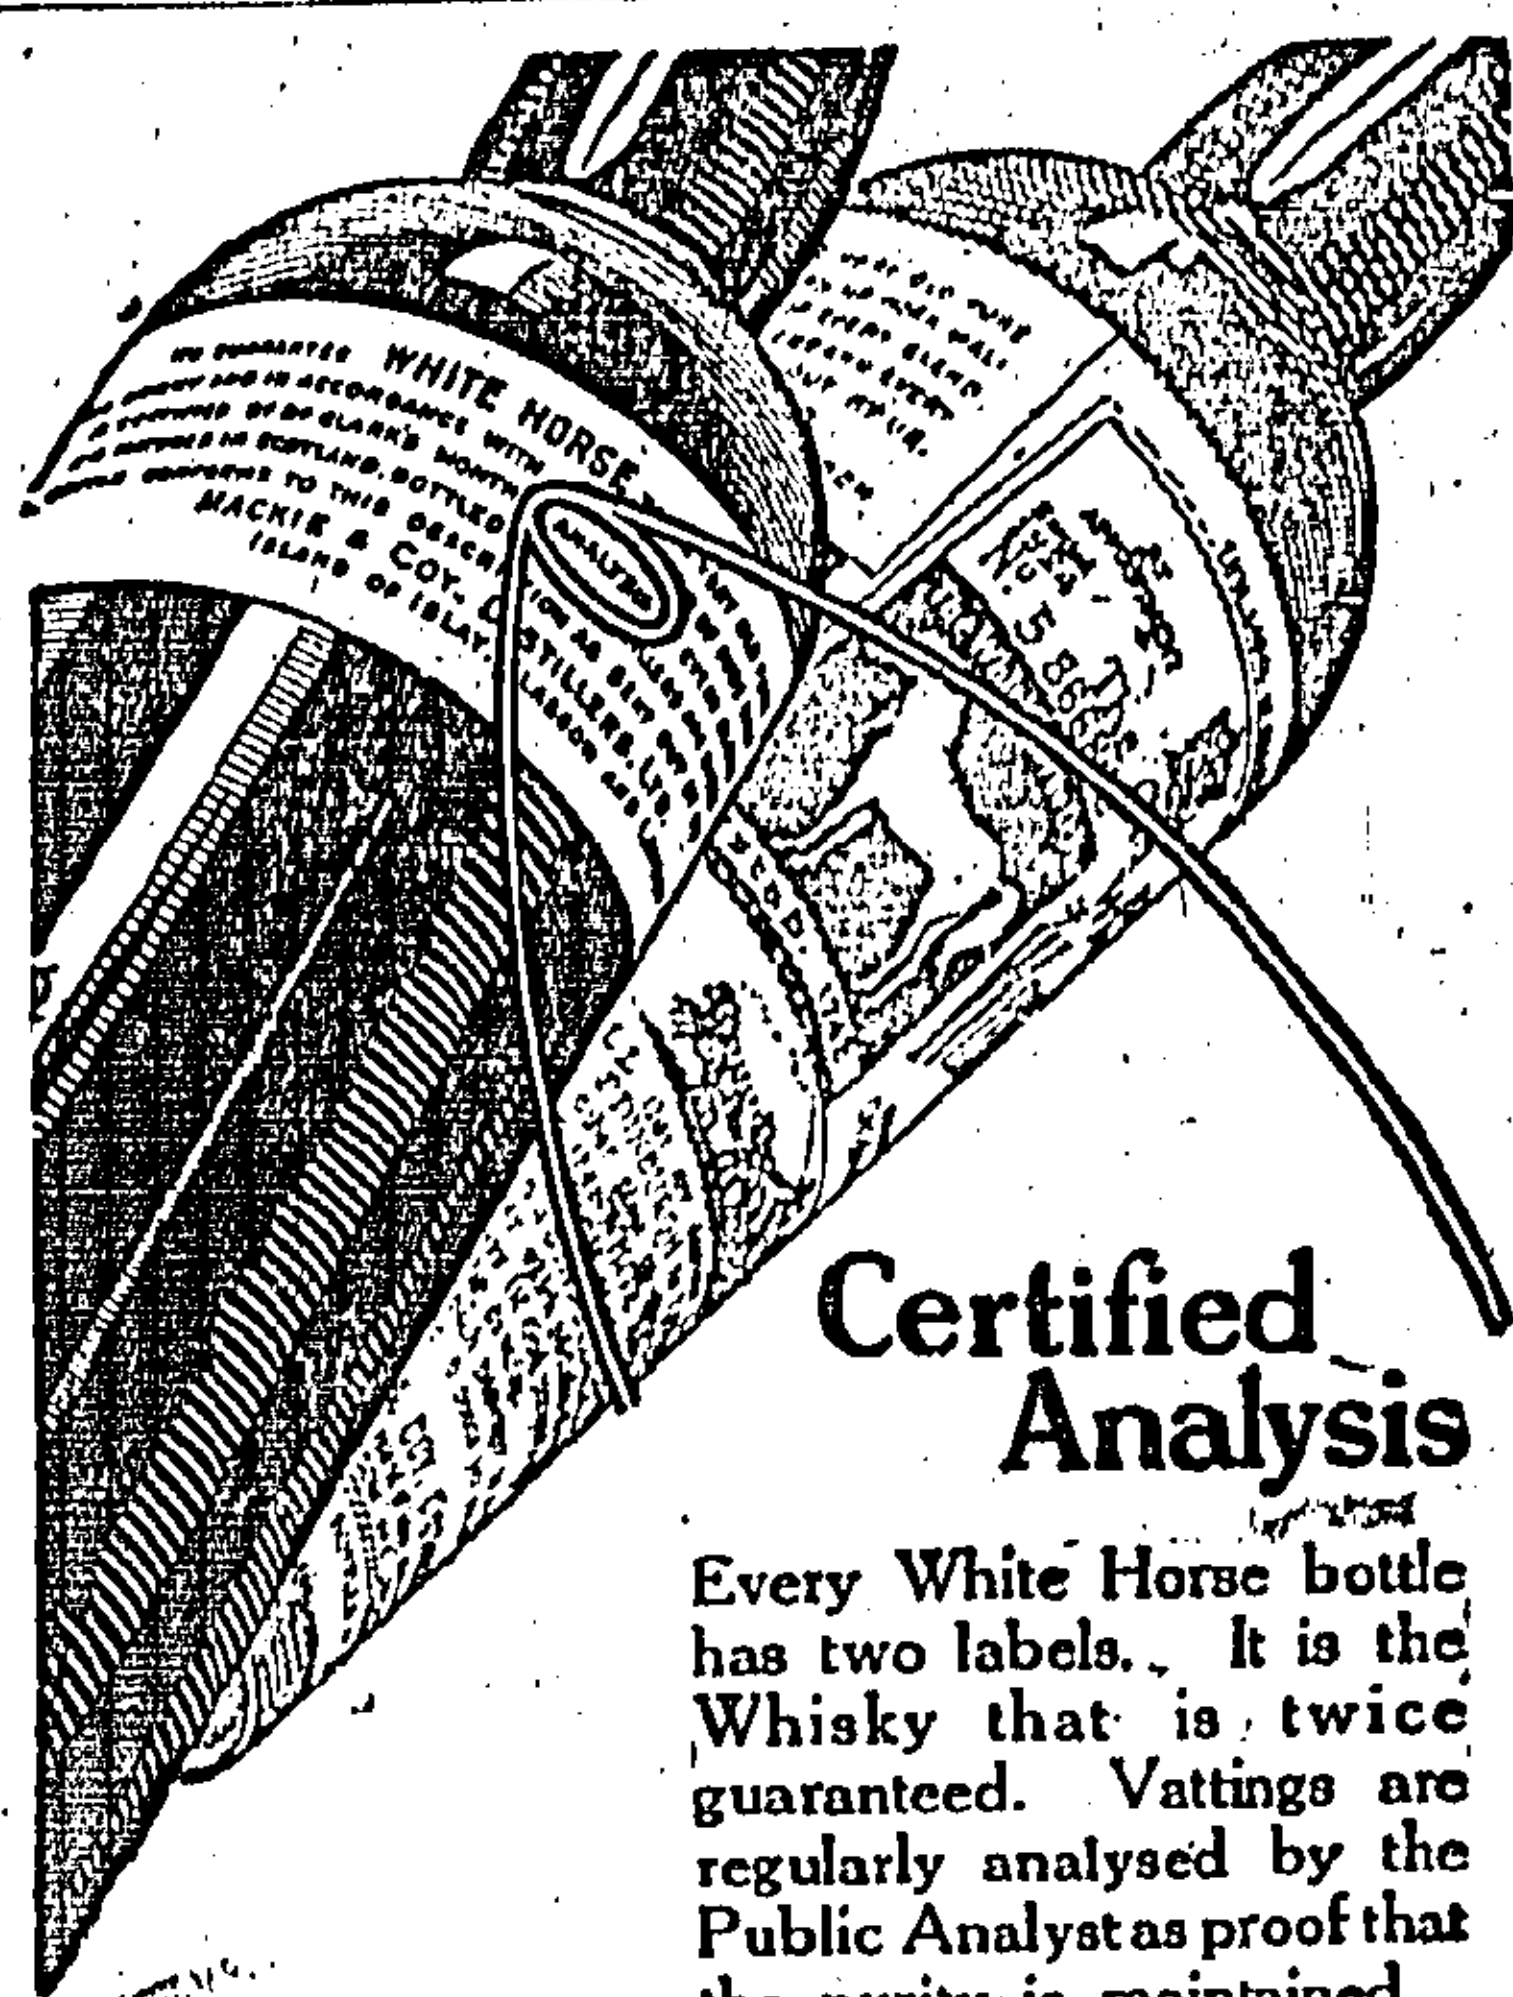

Before a distinguished gathering of senior Naval Officers and their wives on the Navy Ground at Causeway Bay yesterday, H.M.S. Rainbow proved superior to the Oswald and won the final of the Submarine Football Cup by 2 goals to 1.

The Rainbow were by far the better team and fully deserved to win. They were strengthened by six of the Royal Navy's first and second string players, among them being West, Glass, and Bright.

West, who normally plays left-back for the Navy, played centre-half yesterday and was instrumental in initiating some very fine movements—he played a very clever game and the Rainbow have to thank him for their success.

With one exception the Rainbow's forward line was equal to any Second Division team in Hong Kong to-day. Allsbrook played too much to the gallery, and spoli-

PEREIRA TAKES 10 FOR 5 FAST BOWLER SETS LOCAL RECORD UNIVERSITY SCORE 5 FROM THE BAT

MINU'S FOUR MAIDENS IN SENSATIONAL GAME

F. D. PEREIRA, THE COLONY'S INTERPORT FAST BOWLER, ACHIEVED A FEAT YESTERDAY AT POKFULAM THAT HAS NOT BEEN PERFORMED IN LOCAL LEAGUE CRICKET FOR THE PAST TEN YEARS. HE SECURED ALL 10 WICKETS AGAINST THE UNIVERSITY AND CONCEDED ONLY 5 RUNS IN HIS 4.5 OVERS. THE UNDERGRADUATES WERE DISMISSED FOR 12, SEVEN OF WHICH WERE EXTRAS! THIS IS ANOTHER RECORD DURING THE PERIOD IN QUESTION.

Pereira's 29 deliveries resulted in 0W0W00; 1W004W; W000W0; 0W0W00; 0000W. Six of his victims were clean bowled, three were caught by Y. el Arculli, and the other was an lbw victim. A. R. Minu, the Indians other Interporter, bowled four maidens!

F. D. PEREIRA

The Indians lost one wicket before the 13th run was hit. Gosano clean bowling S. A. Ismail.

BUT POLICE DRAW

Armstrong Carries Bat
In Club Innings.

334 RUNS FOR 10 WICKETS

C. F. Alexander certainly did everything he could to give the Police victory in the junior league yesterday at the Valley, but the Club forced a draw.

Going in at 57 for 3, he carried his bat for 73 out of 130 in 80 minutes, hitting a five and 14 boundaries. He then took 4 for 35 in 10 overs.

H. J. Armstrong also showed good form, hitting nine boundaries in a laborious knock for 60 not out after opening the innings.

PERSONALITIES OF PAST YEAR

Which Are The Most Outstanding

Posterity Alone Is Real Judge Of Greatness

(By ANTHONY WINN)

As each year ends we always review it in a severely departmental way—the twelve best tennis players, the most prominent politicians, noted composers and men of science. But no one ever tries to compare men of different talents and decide who is the greatest man of the year, and who, for that matter, the greatest woman.

Any such decision must, to a certain extent, be based on personal bias and a capacity for comparing incomparables. Several million Germans would think it laughable to give the palm to anyone but Hitler, several dozen small boys of St. Aldin's would find no peer for Briggs major, who shot the winning goal against Hackers Park. And my own vote for Harpo Marx might be disallowed.

Posterity Will Decide But posterity, the old enemy, will decide, in its judgment of 1934, who came out of that year best. It is worth while pitting our judgment against posterity, whether we judge by the standard of character, enlargement of the boundaries of knowledge, good example, artistic achievement, or benefit to humanity. I will now suggest a few names which occur to me as I survey world events, country by country, in the past year.

America had the Roosevelts, Frances Perkins, Marie Dressler, Beebe, Tilden, and Grace Moore. The Roosevelts, especially Franklin, dominate the landscape, as much for their technique in governing as for their actual achievements. The best critics in the U.S.A. have condemned N.R.A. as a noble experiment, and the "best" Republicans have condemned Mrs. Roosevelt as no first lady. But the two of them have proved that in the endless adventure of government, men, pomposity and circumlocution are out of date.

Frances Perkins is Roosevelt's Minister of Labour, and, of all the women, the one who has the biggest administrative position. But 1935, with big public works projected, is more likely to be her year.

A Gracious Memory Marie Dressler died. Of all the women, film-stars she was the one who was a comfort as well as a stimulant. This brought her universal affection which no purely aphrodisiac competitor could hope to emulate. Millions left a Marie Dressler film feeling that they could be kinder and braver, and more philosophically humorous in the face of adversity, for having seen her. 1934 was the year in which she finished a good job of work. Only Grace Moore, the first beautiful operatic singer, might compete. Beebe went 2500 ft. beneath the sea. Other scientists may have achieved more. But none combined the practical and the spectacular as he did.

Tilden I deliberately place above Perry. The latter has played good tennis; but the former has plodded on to remove the grand anomaly of high-class tennis—the untouchability of the professional—and the interest in the Wembley tournament showed that he is getting on with this thankless task.

Australia had Melrose, the solitary pilot. In a big year for aviation he possibly comes out top, because he showed what could be done within normal financial limits.

Personalities Of The East China, like most of the democracies, finds it difficult to throw up a great man. But Japan has Hirota, her Foreign Minister, a diplomat whose capacity for manipulating Japan's cantankerous foreign policy amounts to genius.

India is full of people a little larger than life. There is the Aga Khan—but his main success was slightly vicarious and happened in England. But in India itself Lady Willingdon has kept up the prestige of the British Empire, and Sir Malcolm Hailey, ex-Governor of the United Provinces, finished a term of office in which 48 millions were ruled without the military ever being called out. The former showed that being a lady of determination has its utilitarian value in public life; and the latter, if public service is to be considered the highest form of civilised activity, was first among his equals.

The Near and Middle East are barren except for Ibn Saud, the King of the Hedjaz. He defeated the Imam of Yemen and bade himself lord of Southern Arabia. The only conqueror in the year, and, on pure spectacular value, probably an easy winner.

General Smuts South Africa suddenly found that the international prestige of General Smuts for wisdom had jumped to a new high level. Even those who disagreed listened to him with respect.

Russia rumbled on as usual. Nothing new came from Stalin, Pavlov, or Gorki. Italy had nothing new to offer, although Mussolini's reputation as a Austria Dollfus gave the perfect imitation of Wordsworth's happy warrior: and when he died it was felt in England that there was more to him than a lack of inches. He had fallen in so very closely with the English conception of a hero. And Austria sent England that little genius—Ellisabeth Berquer.

Germany had one great man—but he was a Bulgarian. Dimitroff finished his defiance of the embattled forces of the Nazis early in the year. By the time he had finished nobody cared whether he was a Fascist, a Communist, a film star or a Peculiar Person. It was like going to a performance of "King Lear," and seeing Lear stay sane on the heath and shrivel up the elements.

A French Hero France, badly in need of a great man, failed to find one (except for Louis Revell, self-inoculated with cancer): so did Spain, and the rest of Europe—though, a rider to the effect that Flandin must be watched in 1935 is not out of place. There (Continued on Page 7)

KING'S JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS

Overseas Tour Now Outlined

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR LOCAL RESIDENTS

Messrs. Thos. Cook and Son, Ltd., send further details of the Overseas League Jubilee Tours available at special rates, which should interest Hong Kong members of the League.

The first tour from May 3 to May 31 is undertaken by De Luxe "All-weather" Saloon Motor coaches. The following is the itinerary arranged:

May 3 to 9.—In London—in-cluding Windsor and Eton, with Official Reception on May 6.

May 10 to 17.—Oxford, "Shakespeare's County," Warwick, Leamington Spa, Kidderminster, Shrewsbury, Conwy, Llangollen, Colwyn Bay, Chester, Liverpool, Blackpool, Lake District (Windermere, Ambleside, Grasmere etc.)

Carlisle, Dumfries, Stranraer.
May 18 to 21.—Visit to Belfast and Giant's Causeway.

May 22 to 27.—In Scotland. Glasgow, Loch Lomond, The Trossachs, Stirling, Edinburgh, Melrose Abbey.

May 27 to 30.—Newcastle-on-Tyne, Durham, Ripon, Harrogate, York, Doncaster, Lincoln, Cambridge.

May 31.—Return to London.

The rate of 59 guineas is all inclusive providing travel, hotel accommodation and meals, sight-seeing, gratuities etc.; also the services of a Tour Manager who will supervise the carrying out of all arrangements.

On The Continent
The itinerary of the Continental Tour from May 31 to June 18 commences with a period of five days spent in London at the Hotel Metropole. This affords an opportunity of visiting Epsom for the Derby on June 6.

June 6 to 8.—In Paris.
June 9 to 11.—Brussels and Cologne.

June 12 to 13.—In Berlin and Potsdam.

June 14 to 17.—Amsterdam, Isle of Marken and the Hague.

June 18.—Return to London.

The rate of 45 guineas for this tour from May 31 until June 18, is also fully inclusive, but travel is undertaken by rail instead of by motorcoach.

The Committee of the Overseas League have asked Cooks to assist in making these tours a complete success, and they will be happy to furnish full details of the itineraries, etc. to any members of the League who are interested. As mentioned previously, special facilities have been introduced for non-members of the Overseas League who wish to participate.

remains our own country of Britain and, because it is familiar, we tend to judge the year by it. We have Sir Henry Bortolotto (the most effective Minister, in my opinion), Evangelina Booth, Sickert (showing by force of example that English painting can be better than the schools of Paris), Martin Lind-say (explorer of an unknown part of Greenland), Dr. Helen Mackay, (the first woman fellow of the R.C.P.), C.W.A. Scott (and Campbell Black), Lloyd George (for his memories of Passchendaele and his proposal to come back to constructive politics). Such a list need have no end. Like a tipster I suggest five:

QUICK ACTION with SAFETY is the KEYNOTE of

'ASPRO'

WHEN Headaches—Pain—High Temperatures, and numerous conditions of ill-health appear you want RELIEF, and Quick Relief, to get back to normal. This is where the use of 'ASPRO' is so valuable. It acts quickly and safely. Quickly because you get rapid relief—Safely because it is pure and conforms to the standards laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia, the guiding authority of the Medical Profession. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' relieves the numerous complaints listed below, because, after ingestion in the system, it is a powerful germicide, and is anti-pyretic—anti-periodic and anti-fermentative. Always keep 'ASPRO' in the Home ready for emergency. 'ASPRO' DOES NOT HARM THE HEART.

'ASPRO' for Headaches and Neuritis

167 Union Street, Erskineville, N.S.W.

Sirs,
I am an obstetric nurse, and my profession takes me on numerous journeys, which mean long hours in all kinds of weather, and at times I have felt that I could not carry on, but thanks to the wonderful 'ASPRO' Tablets—which I am never without—I have had instant relief from Headaches and Neuritis.

I have nursed four generations, and have always advised my patients to try 'ASPRO' Tablets for complaints too numerous to mention, and all have been loud in their praise for the wonders which 'ASPRO' has done for them.

You may use this testimony in any way you wish, for I am very grateful for the relief which I had from 'ASPRO'.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) NURSE ELDEN

Nerves were in a Terrible Way—'ASPRO' a Surprise

1 Garden Street, Middle Brighton, S.S., 15/12/32

Dear Sirs,
Last week I had 18 teeth out, and not being well my nerves were in a terrible way; in fact, I had to be taken home from the dentist. I went on for a couple of days in terrible pain with my head and eyes, due to my nerves, so I had to go to a doctor. On my way home I bought a packet of 'ASPRO'. I took three and laid down, and to my surprise I woke up feeling lovely. Now, if I feel a slight headache at all I fly to my 'ASPRO'. I think 'ASPRO' should be in every home. I could mention a few more facts, where 'ASPRO' has done good in my home. Once tried, always used.

Yours faithfully,

Kowloon Tong Garden City

"On such an auspicious occasion as this, it is fitting that I should tell you briefly how this Association has come into existence, what are its objects, and what the Committee hope for its future.

"I dare say most of you have already heard how this Kowloon Tong Garden City was created. From the year 1920 to 1925, on account of the land boom in the Colony, speculators bought up houses and pulled them down to rebuild, thus causing a serious shortage of houses, and rentals were extremely high. The Government received complaints from the public, and was asked to solve the problem. The Government itself could not undertake a house-building scheme, but approached Mr. Montague Ede to undertake it. This area of Kowloon Tong was chosen for the building scheme.

First Development Company

"Mr. Montague Ede organised and formed the Kowloon Tong and New Territories Development Co., Ltd. to execute the building scheme. In the years 1924-5, after the death of Mr. Montague Ede, progress in the building operations was very slow and inferior materials were used in the building. Subscribers to the scheme complained to the Government and the Government agreed to investigate the matter. Then the subscribers formed the Association of Subscribers of the Kowloon Tong Building Scheme to protect their interests.

"In 1929 the Kowloon Tong and New Territories Development Co., Ltd. became insolvent and its creditors threatened to attach all houses whose owners refused to pay a further 9 per cent. of the cost. The Association of Subscribers approached the Government, through its solicitors, Messrs. Johnson Stokes and Master, for protection, and the Government resumed the whole estate. Thereafter a compromise for a full settlement between the subscribers, the Government, and the creditors of the Kowloon Tong Co. was arranged and a full settlement was effected. The Association of Subscribers was then dissolved and ceased to function. The new association, known as the Kowloon Tong Garden City Association, was organised, formed and incorporated under the Companies Ordinances; the word "Ltd." was eliminated by permission of His Excellency The Governor.

New Association's Aims
"The principal objects of this Association are to provide a clubhouse, for the accommodation of members and their friends, for meetings and gatherings, whether social, educational, commercial or otherwise, and recreation (such as billiards, tennis, bowls and other games), to protect and further the interests of residents and owners of property in Kowloon Tong Estate and to do all such things as may be deemed expedient for the welfare of the community therein and for the benefit of its neighbourhood and the inhabitants thereof.

"Thanks to a generous Government which has granted us, at a nominal rent, this large semi-circular plot of land, and to Mr. H. M. Shiu our architect-member, and to the Contractor Tai Foo, we are sitting in this beautiful Club House with exquisitely turfed and nicely laid out grounds surrounding it.

"The cost of this building is raised almost entirely by debentures purchased by public spirited owners and residents of Kowloon Tong properties and their friends. It is hoped that we shall soon be able to enrol a large membership to support the Club and to pay off the debenture holders.

Graduated Club Fees
"The entrance fee for a member who is the owner of a house or houses in Kowloon Tong Estate, is $25.00, for a member who is a resident therein $15.00, and for a member who is neither resident nor owns a house therein $10.00. The annual subscription for a member (whether a voting member or not) is $10.00 payable half-yearly in advance on the first day of January and the first day of July in every year.

"Ladies who are residents in Kowloon Tong Estate may be admitted to the full privileges of the Association (except that they are not entitled to vote at or attend any meetings of the Association or to have a voice in the management thereof) upon ballot, upon payment of an entrance fee of $5.00 and an annual subscription of $5.00, unless they are the owner of a house in Kowloon Tong Estate, in which case they shall pay an entrance fee of $25.00 and an annual subscription of $10.00.

"Ladies and gentlemen, it is the wish of the General Committee that this formal opening should be as simple a matter as possible and so, after I have repeated my speech in Chinese, we will proceed to fire a string of crackers, which is the kind gift of Messrs Kwong Man Sung, and then partake of tea and refreshments; after which you are requested to make yourselves thoroughly at home."

MILITARY ACADEMY CHANGES

Cantonese Cadets To Have Modern Training

GENERAL LI ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

(From Our Own Correspondent)
Canton, Yesterday.

General Li Yang-king, officer commanding the Third Army, left on Thursday for Waihow to inspect his troops in that area and will proceed to Swatow, where he is in charge of the Pacification Office for Eastern District. As soon as his inspection tour is over, General Li will return to Canton as Deputy Superintendent of the Kwangtung Military and Political Academy at Yin Tong.

During his absence from Canton, the affairs of the Academy are in the hands of the new secretary-general, Colonel Li Chung-yun. General Li is expected back here at the end of the month.

There will be other changes in the administrative staff and faculty of the Military Academy after the summer holidays. The cadets will receive new training along modern lines. General Li Yang-king is specially suited for this work, as he was appointed by General Chiang Kai-shek to serve as commandant in 1926 of the Whampoa Military Academy.

The Yin Tong school is training cadets to become commissioned officers in the army and to be county magistrates. There is a special class for the training of officers who have seen active service, but who require theoretical instruction.

MR. GREIG ADVISORY MEMBER OF VOLUNTEERS COMMITTEE

His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to appoint Mr. George Stacy Kennedy-Skipton, to be District Officer (South), New Territories, with effect from last Monday according to the current issue of the Government Gazette.

Under the provisions of the New Territories Ordinance No. 34, of 1910, Mr. Kennedy-Skipton is authorised to hold a Small Debts Court at the Charge-rooms of the Police Stations at Tsuen Wan, Tai O (Lantau) Tung Chung (Lantau), Cheung Chau, and Yung Shu Wan, Lamma Island.

The appointment of Mr. K. E. Greig as a member of the Advisory Committee of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, is gazetted with effect from January 15.

His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to appoint Mr. Harry Wright Fraser, Miss Chau Suk-chen and Miss Wei Mo Fong to be Inspectors of Mui Tsai, with effect from January 1, 1935.

It is notified that Mr. Robert Emmet Farrel, Hon. Vice-Consul for Spain in Hong Kong, resumed charge of the Spanish Consulate on January 8, 1935.

WOMAN VICTIM OF TRICKSTER

$5 Compensation From Poor Box

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing several cartons of sausages and 20 packets of cigarettes from Yuen Kiu, a 48-year-old widow, by means of a trick, Mui Chin-kong, a 24-year-old unemployed, was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

Detective-Sergeant Poyntz, of the Shamshui Police Station, stated that the defendant had told the complainant that he was a boy employed at the Shamshui Military Camp and that if she gave him articles he would sell them and make a profit for her. She had already lost things to the value of over $25 in this way.

After passing sentence, Mr. Hamilton ordered $5 to be given to the woman from the poor box.

FORESTRY WORK IN KWANGTUNG

Satisfactory Progress Reported

Canton, yesterday. Since the launching of the plan for the promotion of forestry by the Provincial authorities, the work of cultivation of fallow lands in various counties has been fast proceeding. According to reports, up to the present, more than half the counties which were the first to receive orders to establish forestry stations have done so and the rest are expected to complete their work within this year.

In order to promote agriculture, the Provincial authorities have already instructed various counties to expand propagating stations and to establish model cultivation districts. It is learned that most of them have begun to draft schemes.—Central Press.

Unless cause is shown to the contrary within three months, dating from January 18, the name of the Tai-Sin Investment and Loan Co., Ltd., will be struck off the Register and the company dissolved.

The R.M.S. Empress of Asia is due to arrive here from Manila at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, and will berth at the Kowloon Wharf. She will leave the same day for the Kowloon Dock for her annual overhaul.

The Inspector-General of Police notifies that the usual Chinese New Year Fair will be held, in Hong Kong, in Gloucester Road between Fenwick Street and Fleming Road, while in Kowloon, stalls will be allowed on approved sites, in Waterloo Road between Nathan Road and the seafront, Argyle Street between Reclamation Street and Portland Street, Nan-Chang Street between Lat Chi Kok Road and Cheung Sha Wan Road.

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, JANUARY 20, 1935.

What Does Japan Want?

IT is noticeable to anyone who keeps in touch with the English and American Press that as soon as one difficulty is solved attention is unanimously turned to another as if by general consent. The popular subject of the moment is—what is Japan aiming at? What is the motive behind the abrogation of the Five Power Treaty? Here in Hong Kong one might imagine that we should have clear and well-informed opinions on the subject, and certainly plenty of the people that one meets are in possession of a clear and comprehensive explanation. The puzzle is that they differ quite as much as the overseas commentators. As a rule there is little doubt about the ultimate object of any nation's policy; the conundrum is to guess how and when the next step will be taken; in the present case the motives suggested vary from fear or national pride to the commercial exploitation of China, Japanese conquest of Mongolia, or of Eastern Siberia, the extrusion of Europeans from the Far East, the annexation of the Philippines, the control of the whole of Asia. Some of these objects seem to belong to so distant a future that they hardly come within the field of the usual tasks of diplomacy which makes it a cardinal maxim that sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

The notice of abrogation does not take effect until the last day of next year, and many tides will ebb and flow before that rather distant date. It is also clear that definite proposals will be laid before the Conference which must, according to the terms of the treaty, which Japan is as anxious to observe as any other Power. It may also be inferred from the recent declaration of the American Secretary for the Navy that an understanding has been arrived at in London that no Power is going to start an armaments race during the interval. The Nine Power Treaty will expire on the 21st day of December, 1936, ten days before the Naval Treaty, so it is obvious that on the result of the Conference will depend the question whether the other Powers will be willing to renew that Charter of Peace on the present terms. That Treaty provides that the United States shall not fortify any base nearer to Japan than Hawaii, and that Great Britain shall not fortify any base nearer than Singapore. It is obvious that these "self-denying ordinances" are the price paid for Japan's limitation of her Navy to the present maximum; and that if the two Powers can manage to work together they will have plenty of counters to bargain with. This is the explanation of the advice given by General Smuts to a distinguished audience a fortnight ago that the cardinal object of British policy should be "to establish a good understanding with the United States, that the two Governments should work together for the peace of the world." The same policy was echoed by Mr. Lloyd George only the other day. These public pronouncements are an echo of a controversy that has been going on behind the scenes. There is a section of opinion in the Conservative Party, and in the Navy, that contends that as the States will not make a Treaty or commit themselves to any definite action, the only thing left for Great Britain to do is to negotiate directly with Japan. It was against this section of his party, with which he is already in antagonism over the new Indian Constitution, that Mr. Baldwin stated the other day that "under no circumstances would he remain a member of any Government that would contemplate Naval operations without first ascertaining what attitude the United States Government intended to take up."

In Washington there is a corresponding section of tire-sowers who tried to make mischief during the recent conversations by warning Mr. Norman Davis that he would make a mistake if he took too strong a line, because the British representatives were negotiating with Japan behind his back. The insinuation was quite unfounded, and appears to have been based on some indiscreet speeches made by members of the delegation of the Federation of British Industries that has been investigating the trade conditions of Manchukuo, without any political authority whatever.

All these devious conflicts of influence indicate that we have not yet got very far from the "tricks that are vain and ways that are dark" of the old diplomacy; in fact it is doubtful whether the blaze of publicity has not made negotiation a far harder row to hoe than ever it was before. We have no doubt ourselves that Mr. Baldwin's line of policy is the right one, and that Sir John Simon has been careful to follow it. The key to the problem is the co-operation of the two English-speaking peoples.

The PASSING HOUR by A. N. M.

MUSIC AND MECHANISM

SITTING in the Helena May Institute the other day and listening to Madame Florigny's interpretation of some of the old favourites like the "Moonlight" and the selections from Chopin, interspersed with pieces that were quite new to me like her own composition and the rather showy pieces by Spanish composers I became aware of a distinct difference of critical attitude to the old and the new. To neither could I bring any technical training that would make my opinion of any interest to anyone else;—nothing but the ordinary layman's appreciation based on the inconclusive fact that he likes what he likes. But after all a pretty big proportion of any audience is composed of that sort of person; and appearance on a public platform is in itself an appeal for that sort of person's support. And it occurred to me that the gramophone and the wireless had probably made a bigger difference to the way I listened to the selections than I had expected.

THE "MOONLIGHT"

MY recollections of the Beethoven went back to the reign of that long-suffering instrument, the cottage piano, when both boys and girls were supposed to go to a music teacher and test out their faculty. There was no hesitation about tackling the great masters at quite an early stage; it was all a wild scramble to find the right notes; and when the scramble was finished the compliments came unflinching, presumably for having avoided a breakdown. In those days the favourite performance was a duet called the "Battle of Prague," the chief virtue of which was that at one point both players had the fingering so arranged that they had both to cross their hands. Then came the occasional performance in the course of an established series of concerts, in my case by Sir Charles Halle, whose rather wooden but expert version caused many of the amateurs to give up in despair. Of subsequent performances I remember best Paderewski's, before a very thin audience on his first visit to England. By that time the standard of virtuosity had risen to such an extent that nothing would induce the old Battle-of-Prague to sit down to a piano; and the parents used to bemoan all the money they had wasted on unresponsive children. After Paderewski it was impossible to listen to the sort of performance which had once given a good deal of pleasure, or at any rate exercise. Thousands of pianos stood neglected in their corner of the drawing room; the household was starved for music unless some performer happened to come round.

THE COMING OF THE GRAMOPHONE

TO such households the gramophone was a godsend. It had the double virtue of encouraging the really musical by giving them the chance of studying a good interpretation at their leisure, with such repetitions as might be necessary, and of bringing music to the relief

SECRET OF MANY AIR CRASHES AIR VORTICES CAUSED BY STORMS

LABORATORY EXPERIMENTS SOLVE PUZZLE

UNTIL quite recently, fog was regarded by airmen as the most dangerous weather condition with which aircraft had to contend. But rapid strides in wireless telegraphy have enabled the airman to overcome this great obstacle, and to-day he may fly through the densest fog and keep in touch with the ground below him, so that a perfect landing may be made.

Unexplained Accidents

At fairly regular periods we read of air accidents for which no satisfactory explanation can be given. In a few instances, observers have stated that the wings of the aeroplane seemed to "crumple up" and drift apart; on other occasions the aeroplane was reported to have "broken to pieces," the various sections being scattered in all directions, as if by internal explosion. There can be but little doubt that unusual atmospheric conditions are responsible for many of these accidents. Results of recent investigations go to prove that whirling columns of air, in which there is a central core of greatly reduced barometric pressure, are responsible for most of the unsolved air disasters.

Line Squalls

These vigorous air eddies are most likely to occur during the passage of an exceptionally severe thunderstorm; or in the central portion of a "line squall," that is, when a cold current of air from the north-west or north overruns the prevailing warmer current from the south-west, producing a long line of heaped-up clouds, which moves bodily forward over considerable areas of the country. Just as a surface air current will often set up small whirlwinds—raising dust and pieces of paper several feet—so the larger currents in the upper air often develop into whirling "air pools" of considerable magnitude, their wind velocities exceeding 100 miles an hour.

In the centre of this vortex, which may not exceed a few yards in diameter, centrifugal force reduces the atmospheric pressure considerably, and it is this reduced pressure which is dangerous to aircraft.

Manufactured Storms

Artificial air eddies have been "manufactured" in the laboratory

Air Race Nets £100

KEEN-EYED Owen Cathcart-Jones, the man who made air history recently by his ten-day 24,000-mile Australia-and-back record flight, has something very interesting to say about the financial result of his flight which will come as rather startling news to many people.

Many people naturally concluded that his fortune was made, that his future was assured, and that his

MR. W. J. CARRIE.

This is the twenty-fifth of the exclusive series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Konyea, the talented Hungarian artist.

THE subject of this week's "personality" sketch is Mr. William James Carrie, M.A., B.Sc. (Edinburgh).

Mr. Carrie, who was born on April 4, 1891, was educated at Watson's School, Edinburgh (of which his father, who died in 1916, was at one time Headmaster), and at Edinburgh University.

He sat for his Civil Service examination in 1914 and was sent out to Hong Kong the following year as a Cadet. His next two years were spent in learning Cantonese. In May, 1917 he was seconded for military service and proceeded homewards via America. He had completed about half his training when the War came to an end.

Passing his law examination in 1920, he became Assistant Colonial Secretary and Clerk of Councils. Since then he has served in a multitude of capacities, including that of Postmaster General, 1933. This is his second term as head of the Sanitary Department.

Mr. Carrie proudly refers to the fact that he is the only Cadet ever to hold the position of First B.F. of Hong Kong, but is careful to explain that these initials stand for "Botanical and Forestry" Department.

The work of popularising Hong Kong as a tourist resort has been placed in the hands of Mr. Carrie.

TO-DAY'S QUOTATION

This day is all that is good and fair. It is too dear, with its hopes and invitations, to waste a moment on the yesterday.—EMERSON.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 139.

Ma-on-shan.

On Wednesday 16th January three of us were fortunate in being able to take a day off which we devoted to a climb up Ma-on-shan. As this is perhaps the best mountain in the Territories for rare plants and as it affords both a good climb and, if not crowned with cloud, an excellent view from the summit a description of the route which we took may be of interest to some.

We left the car by the Tai Po main road above the village of Cheung Shui Tan to which we descended and where we chartered a small, new and beautifully clean junk which smelt of tung oil varnish. We bargained that we should be taken to the pier (ma tau) some distance north of the village of Tai Shui Hang for the sum of $1.50 and promised to give the same amount if the junk was there at 4 p.m. for the return journey—no doubt, too much but the trip was worth it. The ferry across Tide Cove lasted 1/2 hour and the ascent of Ma-on-shan from there another 2 1/4 hours. We started along the orthodox route up the Iron Mine road to Ma-on-shan village and beyond and almost to the top of the peak. Here we left the path and turned left to climb a ridge running S.S.W. from the summit before the final ascent we joined once more the usual path which for half a mile or so we had left on our right. The peak was covered with cloud and it was a raw day so much so that we were reminded of our climbs in the English Lake District. Nevertheless we enjoyed our lunch, eaten in the lee of the concrete pillar which tops the summit. From here, with the aid of a compass, we made off in the direction of the highest peak of the Hunchbacks, which is less than forty feet lower than Ma-on-shan. It was our intention to proceed along the Hunchbacks and from thence to descend to the Iron Mine road and so back to the pier but we mistook the route. I have climbed Ma-on-shan several times before and by different ways and realised almost from the beginning that we were on the wrong path but said nothing because I wished to find some of the flowers for which the mountain is famous. The path was very difficult to follow at first but presently it became more visible and soon we were descending a steep razor-back. We were entirely shut in by trees and the path was more in the nature of a pig track than a mountain path for rarely were we able to walk upright.

The trees and rocks were festooned with mosses and lichens reminiscent of mossy forest in the Philippines and the rocks and banks were covered with epiphytic orchids, hundreds of plants of several species were visible at once. Nothing new was seen but our time was limited and we therefore could not afford the time to explore. A stone was dislodged accidentally and it went crashing down the hillside; we listened till the rumbles and echoes accompanying its fall got fainter and died away in the distance. And no wonder for soon we were below the cloud level and found that we were descending the steep N.W. ridge of the mountain. This is the ridge that stands out so conspicuously and can be seen so clearly from the Tai Po road; in places it looks like a one in one descent and probably is. Thanks to the dense vegetation the descent was easy and we presently emerged on the steep grassy shoulder, the lower part of the N.W. ridge, from whence we descended to the village of U Kwei Sha.

A very beautiful Artisia (probably A. punctata), was in full berry on the wooded ridge and a large bunch of shoots gay with scarlet berries was carefully carried through the dense vegetation. The most interesting finds were two flowering shrubs which were just coming into flower. The first was Barthea chinensis a member of the Melastomaceae with a white flower tinged outside with bright pink about 2 inches in diameter. This species is recorded as flowering in April but our records show that in March it is at its best, January is however early. This mountain group is famous for its Rhododendrons several species of which flourish on its precipitous slopes. The common R. farrerae, with its small purple-pink flowers was just opening, in certain places; but the find of the day was a much rarer kind. A large shrub of a pink flowered species was seen to bear a few opened flowers as well as a few buds which might be picked open in water; I climbed up and collected specimens. The fragrant flowers are a uniform pale pink, one petal with yellow markings, and at least three inches across. According to the key in "Dunn and Tutcher" it is R. Henryi a species not recorded for the Colony but in "D. & T." only from the Phoenix Mt., Swatow; this key for Rhododendrons is not a good one as it has more than once led me wrong but the species if not R. Henryi is certainly a rare one. The best month for Rhododendrons and other flowering shrubs growing on Ma-on-shan is March and anyone interested should take the opportunity of climbing this mountain in that month. Rhododendrons are strictly protected and flowers should not be gathered without a permit from the B. & F. Department.

CHAMBERLAIN DISAPPOINTED BY "NEW DEAL"

Lacking In Novelty Or Precision

NO SHORT-CUT TO PROSPERITY

London, Yesterday. Referring to the proposals advanced by Mr. Lloyd George, former Liberal Leader, in outlining his suggested plans to stimulate recovery, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Belfast yesterday afternoon, said that he found them rather disappointingly lacking in novelty or precision. Nevertheless, when Mr. Lloyd George had completed his exposition of them in his platform campaign, the Government, which was not above taking ideas that promised help in solving the present-day problems, would examine them with an open mind.

Before embodying them in their programme, however, the Government must be satisfied that they would achieve the purpose for which they were designed. Meanwhile he urged people not to be depressed by the difficulties still ahead of them. There was no short cut to prosperity, and Britain had gone forward more quickly than any other nation.

In a brief reference to the international situation he said that, as Chancellor, he was interested in economy, but it would be foolish economy to shirk expenditure which had now become overdue owing to the fact that Britain, in proof of her desire to maintain peace, had reduced her defences to the danger-point in the hope that other countries would follow her example.—British Wireless Service.

H. K. ENGLISH FORUM

Programme For Next Three Meetings

INTERESTING EVENINGS PROMISED

An interesting programme for the next three meetings of the Hong Kong English Forum, to be held at the Chinese Y.M.C.A., Bridges Street, has been drawn up by the Committee in charge, which includes Mr. W. C. Young, Mr. James Poon, Miss Phyllis Ing, Mr. Nathan Yeung, Mr. Henry Kwok, Miss Rose Pau, and Miss Josephine Wong.

On Wednesday, January 30, there will be a talk on "Chinese Tradition and Custom," in addition to a fine musical programme and community singing. Refreshments will be provided. February 13, will be "Social Night," when new members will be introduced; and on February 27, a travelogue on Singapore, the Hawaiian Islands and Australia, will be given.

MR. R. W. H. MAYNARD MARRIED

MAYNARD-GRIMES WEDDING AT CATHEDRAL

A quiet wedding was yesterday afternoon solemnized at St. John's Cathedral between Miss Rosina May Grimes, of 42 Kennedy Road, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grimes, of England, and Mr. Richard William Henry Maynard, clerk to the Chief Justice, Supreme Court, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Maynard, of Chingford, Essex, England.

The Rev. P. Baines officiated. The bride, who arrived in the Colony by the s.s. Naldora on December 27 last, was given away by Mr. F. T. Winterton. She wore a blue crepe de chine dress, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. F. T. Winterton, who was attired in a dress of brown silk with coat to match, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas, was the matron of honour. Mr. W. Cecil Low performed the duties of best man.

The happy couple later left for Repulse Bay where the honeymoon is to be spent. The bride's going-away dress was of olive-green, trimmed with white, with coat and hat to match.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE FUNCTIONS

Many Social Activities During Week

Sunday, January 13th. His Excellency The Governor, accompanied by Mr. T. Megarry, D. O. North, and Captain Walter, made a tour of the Frontier Road and visited the St. John Ambulance Centres at Shatukok.

His Excellency and Lady Peel, accompanied by Miss Readhead and attended by Captain Walter, were present at the meet of the Fanning Hunt in the afternoon.

Monday, January 14th. His Excellency and Lady Peel visited the Lady Ho Tung Health Centre.

Thursday, January 17th. Lady Peel, accompanied by Miss Readhead and attended by Captain Walter and Mr. Picher, was the guest of Captain Errol Manners, R.N. and the Officers, H.M.S. "Suffolk" at a dance.

Friday January 18th. His Excellency received Captain E. R. Bent, D.S.C., R.N. who remained to lunch. Mr. E. Burney and Captain H. C. Brocklehurst also lunched at Government House.

Saturday January 19th. His Excellency and Lady Peel, accompanied by Miss Readhead and attended by Captain Walter, witnessed the rugby football trial between the Interport XV and the Rest.

CORRESPONDENCE

BRITISH INCOME TAX

[To the Editor, "Sunday Herald"] Sir,—Most of your readers are no doubt aware that it is possible for British subjects resident abroad to recover Income Tax suffered on dividends, interest, trust income, etc., derived from the United Kingdom.

I find, however, that many people so situated are under the mistaken impression that the amount recoverable does not warrant the trouble involved in the preparation of these claims. I can assure them that this is not the case and would urge all recipients of income from this country to take steps to obtain their repayments without delay.

A time limit of six years is involved and it is essential that claims for the year commencing April 6, 1928 be lodged before April 6, 1935. W. T. FAY, 13, Buckingham Palace Gardens, London, S.W.1.

KOWLOON TONG GARDEN CITY

Opening Of Estate Club House

ADDITION TO AMENITIES OF NEIGHBOURHOOD

The Kowloon Tong Garden City Club was formally opened yesterday afternoon by the Chairman of the Garden City Association, Mr. J. M. Wong.

Situated in picturesque surroundings about 15 yards back from Waterloo Road, the Club should add greatly to the amenities of the neighbourhood.

It is a bungalow-type building of white granite, with a wide front and a large circular verandah. The main room is about 40 feet in length and 25 feet wide, and contains the bar. Adjoining are several smaller rooms for billiards, cards etc.

Great care has been exercised over the lighting of the rooms, all harmful glare being avoided. The extensive grounds provide for bowls, tennis and other out-door pastimes.

The cost of the building (exclusive of grounds) is $28,000.

There was a large attendance at the opening ceremony, and all expressed their high appreciation of the arrangements of the Club.

After the opening the Chairman gave a very interesting speech, which was followed by a feuillade of crackers occupying fully five minutes, after which a rousing cheer was given.

An enjoyable tea came next, the catering being in the capable hands of Messrs. Lane, Crawford Ltd., after which, to quote the Chairman, those present "made themselves thoroughly at home."

The Committee of the Club is formed of the following gentlemen:—Messrs. J. M. Wong (chairman), Chun Nai Fan, Shun Lee Hing, H. M. Sin, F. W. Stapleton, C. H. Kwun, Dr. K. L. Kwun, Dr. B. de Sousa, Lai Im Tong, Wong Chik Nam, Q. T. Chan, and H. F. Un (Hon. Secretary and Treasurer).

Mr. Wong in the opening speech said:

SINGAPORE DEFENCE WORKS

Mount Faber Closed To Public Temporarily

Singapore, Yesterday. It is understood that Mount Faber, one of the highest points in the island, is to be closed to the public during the erection of military defence works, but will be reopened after their completion. — Reuter.

A large portion of the top of Mount Faber, to which there is a good road giving easy access, is laid out as a public recreation ground.

CELEBRATING THE SAAR'S RETURN

Local Germans Meet And Rejoice

PATRIOTIC SONGS SUNG AND SPEECHES MADE

The local German community assembled in the German Club on Friday evening to celebrate the return of the Saar region to Germany. The occasion was also the anniversary of the date on which the German Empire was proclaimed in Versailles after the Franco-German War of 1871.

The programme opened with the song "Mein Vaterland" rendered by the German Mixed Choir, after which Herr C. Leopold recited a short poem.

Mr. I. H. Jessen spoke on the return of Saar and the anniversary of the German Reich. Bismarck, he said, succeeded in the difficult task of uniting the then numerous German States into one, and added that it was only now that even his own countrymen were realising the greatness of that achievement. Now that the chaotic conditions which followed the world war had resulted again in a united Germany, Germans realised more than ever the greatness of Bismarck's achievement and rejoiced that in Adolf Hitler they had found the man who could consolidate the work of Bismarck, he continued.

Both the great turning points in German history had occurred within the lifetime of the beloved and admired statesman, the late President von Hindenburg, the link between the Germany of 1871 and the new Germany of 1933.

Mr. Jessen reminded his countrymen that the Saar Germans had been faithful to Germany in times of need and distress, in spite of all advances on the part of France and, last but not least, under the terror of Communist elements let loose in the Saar territory. Germany would be grateful to her sons and daughters of the Saar for their faithfulness. The world was bound to realise that the Saar is as German to-day as it ever was and that all Germany stands united behind Adolf Hitler and his Government, he concluded. The meeting closed with a united "Heil" to Adolf Hitler and to "The New Germany."

ORATORY CONTEST FOR SCHOOLS

Sponsored By Chinese Y.M.C.A.

A Chinese oratory contest, open to pupils of all middle schools in Hong Kong, to be held under the auspices of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., will be held on March 2.

A shield, which is to be held by the school of the winning pupil for one year, has been generously donated by Dr. T. C. Yip.

The topics for the forthcoming contest are as follows:—"A man's life is largely influenced by his spiritual discipline." "Chinese students hereafter must emphasise on vocational education." "The importance of China's rural rehabilitation."

MARSEILLES CRIME ECHO

Hungary's Denial Of Responsibility

POLICE CONTROL BETTERED

London, Yesterday. The Hungarian Government's memorandum on the inquiry undertaken in reply to the complaint of the Government of Yugoslavia alleging Hungarian responsibility for the Marseilles murders was issued at Geneva yesterday morning.

It denies responsibility for any connection with the assassinations. Certain minor Hungarian Police Officers, it is admitted, had not controlled the Croat immigration with all the necessary diligence, and, as a result, two Police Captains had been dismissed and three Policemen had been sentenced to imprisonment. A stricter measure for the control of foreigners and the issue of passports is promised. — British Wireless Service.

NEW ZEALAND BACON

New Zealand is pleased at having secured a bacon quota of 12,500 tons of bacon pigs for delivery in Britain in 1935. This represents an increase over 1934.

What Few Simple Beliefs We Need

Religious Doubts And Difficulties

"The Old Order Changeth Giving Place To New"

—THE FATHERHOOD OF GOD.
(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

SOME years ago, I was travelling back from Shanghai to England. As is usual, I studied my fellow passengers, and thought struck me that, if there was one person there who had no difficulties about religion, it was a certain woman, — she simply had no religion. She played Bridge from morning to night and seemed to have no thought beyond it.

I took a service on the first Sunday, and to my surprise, she came along afterwards, and asked if I would have tea with her that afternoon. When the time came we sat down and afterwards, for nearly two hours, she told me of her difficulties and how she wanted something to get hold of; just a few simple things she could believe.

I tried as hard as I could, there and then, to give her what was wanted; and they seemed to resolve into the following:—

1. God is our Father.
2. Christ is our Brother our Friend, and our Example.
3. Guidance comes to us when we want to do the right.
4. Prayer is how we get in touch, and keep in touch, with Him.
5. Death is not the end.

I have passed on these thoughts many times since then, and the more I think about it, the more I believe that, if we could only grasp them in all their simplicity, our religion, instead of being so full of difficulties and misunderstandings, would be clear-cut and of real and tremendous value to us, while at the same time being fundamentally sound.

For the next few Sundays, therefore, I am going to expand these thoughts into a series of articles, which might be called "What few simple things need we believe."

The Fatherhood Of God

I am not for a moment denying the need of a sound Theology, or the rationale of the creeds drawn up by the Christian Church as the basis of her belief. We must have rules to guide us—some solid foundation on which to build. The creeds were drawn up in the early days of Christianity, when men's thoughts were vague, and needed to be guided aright in the face of erroneous doctrines which began to grow and spread. The creeds have played, and always must play, their part in religion. I merely want to try and suggest that, for the benefit of those who have difficulties about certain items which they contain, we should put them aside for the moment in favour of something which is easier to grasp; and when we have grasped that, then we can go back to them later.

The Church's outlook has changed very little to meet the new needs of her children, with the result that, while they are at heart more religious, they are having less and less to do with organised Christianity, so that we need a

PEPPER USED IN ASSAULT

Stiff Gaol Sentence For Fruitless Attack

Two months' hard labour was imposed by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy on Tang Hung, a 48-year-old unemployed, who was charged with assaulting Young Yee, the 52-year-old No. 1 foreman of the R.F.A. Apple Leaf, in Kowloon Street on Friday morning. Detective-Sergeant Downman, of the Yau-mai Police Station, stated that the complainant was walking along Kowloon Street towards Nathan Road at about 5.45 a.m. on Friday when the defendant came up behind him and threw pepper in his eyes by rubbing his hand across his face.

The defendant immediately made off, but was arrested later. When arrested, the defendant's hands smelt strongly of pepper.

"Spring cleaning" to get rid of some of the dust that has accumulated. There are so many aspects that we can safely leave to scholars and theologians to discuss and argue and write about, concerning which the ordinary person, without any special knowledge, need have no worry.

First of all, then, let us grasp and hang on to the solid fact the God is our Father. That is the starting point of all belief.

We are so made that we have to worship someone, or something. Since the dim dawn of history men have striven to get in touch with something outside and beyond themselves. They put up their simple altars beneath the open sky, and offered sacrifices. But the beings with whom they wanted to get in touch were things of terror. They saw the storm winds crashing through the forests, destroying their humble dwellings and slaying their children. Their only hope was to try and appease their wrath. The idea of anyone who cared never for a moment entered into their calculations. Quite naturally they felt that only the best they had would do, and so they even offered human life.

Revealed To Israelites The highest revelation of God was given to the Israelites. Secluded in the hills of Palestine, they kept the Oracles of Jehovah. At first, He was no more to them their tribal God, albeit the most powerful One they had come across, in their dealings with other tribes, who boasted not a few. Gradually, down the years of their history, the idea of God changed through the preaching of their prophets. He alone, of all the gods, demanded purity of life and uprightness of conduct. He would brook no rivals, and dealt with them in their back-slidings with a heavy hand.

We must remember they were living in the nursery days of human life, and discipline was necessary for right development, just as it is to-day. He demanded an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. They knew just what to expect when they did wrong; though, by the time of Amos and Hosea, they had discovered that He was a God of pity, and was ready to take them back and forgive them when they had paid the penalty. This was a great step forward, but there was much more to come.

God Is Not Tyrant Religion had, however, become a hide-bound legal system. Men were weighed in the balances and usually found wanting. And that is the great trouble to-day. Men still think of God as having a legal system behind Him, and so we expect to be rewarded when we do right, and punished when we do wrong.

We think of God as a great eye, somewhere up in the sky, always on the lookout to catch us doing something which is wrong, so that He can pounce upon us; or as a bad schoolmaster, waiting around the corner with a big stick, with which to beat us on the least provocation; or as a stern judge, upon a throne, dispensing justice with a pair of scales, carefully weighing up the credit and debit side of our accounts, and then dealing out stern punishment to most of us, who are under no delusion as to which side comes out on top. And it is all the biggest fallacy in the world. That is not God.

It was the Old Testament God, but no God as we know Him to-day, not the One as shown us by Christ, Who came to be the one, perfect, and only vision God has ever really given us of Himself.

With the close of the Old Testament you can close down, once and for all time, the old conception of Jehovah. We step out of the nursery into manhood, and in future we must pass our ideas on what Christ has given us; and the greatest step forward, now, is to realise that God is our Father. HAMBURG-AMERIKA'S LATEST LINER

M.V. Cordillera Joining Far East Service

SPLENDID PASSENGER ACCOMMODATION

The Hamburg-America Line have a reputation in the shipping world which stretches back many decades.

The latest addition to their fleet, the motor-ship Cordillera, fully upholds this reputation, and when she makes her initial voyage from Hong Kong to Europe on April 18, she will probably add many more satisfied travellers to the long list of those carried by this famous company.

The Cordillera is a twin-screw motorship of 16,000 tons displacement. She is 525 feet long between perpendiculars, has a width of 65 feet and a height of 41 feet. She is propelled by two eight-cylinder Diesel engines of the latest type, giving her a cruising speed of 17 knots.

Her extensive accommodation provides for 179 first class, 67 tourist class, and 110 economical tourist class passengers. In outward appearance she is slim and graceful, with one short, squat funnel which suggests speed. Yet she looks strikingly sea-worthy and capable of remaining steady in the heaviest seas.

Interior Decoration
Her interior decoration leaves nothing to be desired by even the most fastidious traveller. All rooms have been tastefully furnished in modern style and consideration has been given in the arrangement of the public rooms to every type of passenger.

There is a smoke-room with bar, cozy corners and card tables; a well-furnished lounge with a dance floor; an ice-cream saloon; a children's room (to relieve harassed parents); a ten pavilion with marble dance floor; and many more things that "make all the difference."

The state-rooms are bright and lofty and are provided with ample cupboard-space and washstands with hot and cold running water. Many of them have baths adjoining.

When the Cordillera is joined by the Potsdam, which was launched a few days ago, these vessels will add another to the fine services now in operation between the Far East and Europe.

WALLET STOLEN

Six Months' Gaol After Confession

Charged with the theft of a wallet containing $25 in local currency and $14 in Canton currency, Leung Fuk was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. E. J. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning.

The prosecution alleged that the defendant stole the wallet from Luk Kwok King, a clerk of the Canton Public Safety Bureau, who arrived in the Colony yesterday by the s.s. Lee Hong. Defendant pleaded guilty and also admitted three previous convictions for larceny.

RUSSIAN GAOLED

Statements Unconfirmed By Police

PASSPORT DIFFICULTIES

Roman Gills, the Russian who appeared on remand before Mr. E. J. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning, charged with entering the Colony without a valid passport, was sentenced to one month's hard labour. He will be deported after the completion of his term.

Sergeant Russell stated that Defendant arrived in the Colony on December 6 by the s.s. Trive. For the past three or four weeks he had continually approached the Benevolent Society for help, and had obtained $5 on three occasions. He was afterwards advised to report to the Police. This he did, stating that he was formerly employed on the s.s. Trive.

Inquiries made at the shipping office, however, showed that he had never been employed on any of the company's ships.

Mr. S. K. Chung, of Messrs. A. B. Moulder and Company, Limited, left the Colony yesterday, by the s.s. President McKinley.

THE delicious flavour of 'Ovaltine' makes it a great favourite with children. And that is fortunate — for 'Ovaltine' supplies, in abundant measure, the additional nourishment which children need to make good the energy they spend so prodigally all day long.

'Ovaltine' is prepared from the highest qualities of malt extract, creamy milk and new-laid eggs.

But remember, it must be 'Ovaltine.' Unlike imitations, 'Ovaltine' does not contain household sugar to give it bulk and to cheapen the cost, nor does it contain a large percentage of cocoa. —Reject substitutes.

MILITARY BARBER IN TROUBLE

Without Passport

A fine of $10 was imposed on Charragh Din, charged with entering the Colony without a valid passport, by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning.

Detective Sergeant Russell stated that defendant arrived in the Colony two weeks ago from Shanghai and was now employed at Murray Barracks as a barber.

Defendant possessed a passport, but failed to have it endorsed at Shanghai for Hong Kong.

THE PASSING HOUR

of those who were only wasting their time in trying to be performers. If the amateur is able to criticize the tempo and phrasing of an accomplished player in one of the masterpieces it is the gramophone that keeps his memory fresh, and tempts him to assume the entirely unjustified pose of an expert. For the pianoforte the wireless does not seem to perform the same useful function.

MECHANISM VERSUS THE PERFORMER

THERE is not the slightest reason to suppose that we shall ever come to the pass, prophesied at one time, of having half a dozen great performers, reproduced on disks, and no amateurs. An unconventional rendering may be inferior, but the urge towards playing a piece in one's own way will always be irresistible. It is however quite noticeable that in hearing a new piece the amateur's critical faculty is either in abeyance or at least overwhelmed by the task of following the skill of what may be no more than a display of virtuosity; it comes away with the feeling that the performer was at his best in something that he had not heard before. One heard appreciations of Madame Florigny's concert in terms of technical wisdom suggested that possibly the influences that I had detected in my own enjoyment were more potent than some of the critics could have admitted.

FASHION MIRROR "LIES"

Carter The Great's Independence

"ELONGATED MAIDEN" MYSTERY

Mirrors are now being made which distort the truth and disprove the old saying that "a mirror cannot tell a lie." A woman who went to buy a dress in Mayfair sighed with relief when she looked at herself in the mirror that was placed in the centre of the softly furnished fashion room. She thought that she was getting thinner and that the dress was giving her the right slim lines and decided to buy it at once. When she reached home and eagerly lifted the dress from its tissue paper wrappings and tried it on, she saw insightfully lines and creases which she had not observed in the fashion salon. The new dress did not make her look any thinner, but on the contrary gave her the plump effect that she was trying to avoid.

From time immortal magicians and illusionists have popularly been reputed to employ cunningly concealed mirrors for their astounding effects. Carter the Great and his company of assistants, who for seven nights will appear at the King's Theatre, commencing on Wednesday, eschews the utilisation of mirrors or glasses of any kind in the attainment of an unusual perfection in illusive effects in his latest modern miracle called the "Elongated Maiden." The head, arms and legs of a pretty girl are stretched yards away from their natural positions without apparent discomfort; the simplest solution to this astounding act would be to say that the demoiselle was in some way equipped with false limbs and head. Carter smilingly anticipates his auditors and invites numerous of the "Doubting Thomases" to come upon the stage and tickle the soles of the feet, shake the hands and feed the wandering, though smiling head with bon-bons and whisper in her long-distance ear, bon mots. Unlike the lady in Mayfair, the "Elongated Maiden" takes no umbrage because her lines and symmetry are distorted.

ANDREW AND URSULA

DANCING LOSS TO COLONY

Ursula And Andrew Leaving On Tuesday

FINAL APPEARANCE AT HOTEL TO-DAY

Local dance enthusiasts will hear with regret that Miss Ursula Preston and Mr. H. A. Andrew, an exceedingly popular dancing couple, are leaving by the s.s. Taiyo Maru on Tuesday.

They will make their final appearance during the tea-dance at the Hong Kong Hotel this afternoon.

Andrew and Ursula, to give them their professional title, have been delighting local audiences for some week now, and no function of any importance in the Colony was considered complete without them.

They are in the opinion of many the finest dancers ever to appear on a local floor, and those who have not yet been them should make a point of doing so to-day.

It is understood that Miss Preston will return to London in May in order to study the latest steps on the dance floors of the metropolis. Mr. Andrew went through the same procedure a year ago.

They extend a cordial invitation to any local dancers visiting Shanghai to call on them at their Dancing Academy there.

A large crowd gave them an enthusiastic farewell at the Hong Kong Hotel last night when they appeared for their last evening performance during the dinner dance.

Other Prizes Offered
Additional prizes, totalling £380, have been announced for any noteworthy accomplishment in this direction before the expiration of the time limit. The major condition of the contest is that the machine shall also from a standing start without any power other than that of the strength of the occupant. This machine must be flown between two pylons 500 metres apart. Thirty minutes before the occupant announces his readiness to make the test he must submit his apparatus to the technical commission, in whose hands is the final judgment as to the airworthiness of the machine.

Successor To Glider

FOR the first flight of 500 metres in an aeroplane powered solely by the driver's muscular power, the Polytechnic Gesellschaft of Frankfurt-on-Main is awarding a prize of 5,000 marks, about £420. Contestants have until September 2, 1935, to make the flight, which is carefully restricted as to conditions and airworthiness of the machine.

SOUTH CHINA'S FINE WIN

A good run by Bickford, followed by a glorious centre, almost had its reward when Fowler connected with his head, but the ball sailed just over the cross-bar and out of danger. Following the clearance Hill came back with a good, tricky run but nothing came of the attendant shot at goal.

South China's persistence was rewarded a few minutes later by two goals in quick succession. The first, emanating from Tam Kung-pak, was collected neatly and sent home by Fung King-cheung, the ball striking the upright en-route, while Tam scored the second from a good opening made by Tay.

Howe Intercepts And Scores

The Club again commenced on the offensive after the interval, and this time met with more success, for within a few minutes Howe cleverly intercepted a pass and netted.

The Club's work was nullified shortly afterwards, however, when Tam again netted with a cross-well effort which had lodged between.

From this period the Club were playing much better football and were hemming the South China team in their own sector. Both backs played up well and the halves held their own with the opposing forwards.

The Club forwards continually harassed Tang's charge, but, mainly through the good work of Li Ting-gang and Lau Mau, just failed in their objective on each occasion, and, although they continued the pressure until the end, their efforts were unavailing.

South China "A":—Tang Yat-min; Li Ting-gang, Lau Mau; Leung In-chai, Lau Hing-choi, Lee Kwok-wai; Tai Kwai-shing, Wong Mee-shun, Fung King-cheung, Tam Kung-pak and Tang Quo-lung.

Club Doctors: Gamble, S. Strang; Hyman, Skinner, Duncan, Fowler, Hill, Howe, E. Strang and Bickford.

LINCOLNS NO MATCH FOR AN INSPIRED TEAM

Trying a long shot from somewhere near the half-way line, Dudley had had luck when he hit the bar.

The last goal of the match, about five minutes from time, was a very neat one. A. V. Gosano was attempting to secure possession from Edmondson, A. V. Gosano, however, used the side of his boot to push the ball goalwards and it trickled slowly over the line into the right corner with Meaken guarding the left.

The Recorder deserved to win, and on yesterday's form, their forward line, on bloc, would disgrace no Inter-Port eleven.

Lincolns:—Meakin, Dobbs, Edmondson, Thompson, Dudley, Robinson, English, Malpass, Higgins, Ridley and Baldry.

Recorder:—E. Marques, Silva Netto, Bowen, Delgado, Beltrao, Marques, Castilho, B. Gosano, A. V. Gosano, Gomes and D'Arquino.

MEDICALS BEAT ORDNANCE

Second Half Superiority Keeps Points

At the Valley yesterday the Medicals defeated the Ordnance by 3 goals to 1 in a very fast encounter. Play up to the interval was very even with both teams making occasional raids on the opposing goal. Just prior to the interval the Medicals opened the score through Pim, who, in a maul round the goalmouth, sent in a feeble shot to register.

The Medicals took up the attack after the interval and quickly scored again through Yood, who sent in a fast shot to find Meach well beaten. The Ordnance pressed, and their efforts were rewarded when Bodon, receiving nearly on the goal-line, headed into the corner of the net. Although the Ordnance had most of the play during the latter stages of the second half, they could not find the net again, poor finishing by the forward line being the stumbling block.

Wright increased the lead for the Medicals.

$6,000 OFFER FOR GALLACHER TURNED DOWN

POLICE WIN BUT FAIL TO IMPRESS

Kowloon's Plucky Display

MOSS MISSES PENALTY

Before a moderate attendance, Kowloon were beaten on their own ground by the Police in a very tame and uninteresting encounter by the narrow margin of 2 goals to 1.

As a forerunner of next week's Shield encounter, the game merely stressed the superiority of the Police halves and the inability of their forwards to outwit Morrison and his co-defenders, and, above all, their exceedingly poor shooting.

Tommy Pile seemed the only forward with any dash, even Stephens showing much below form, and rarely showing his true capabilities. Johnston tried hard to force his way past Eastman and Morrison, and when he did succeed his few shots were invariably wide or easily cleared by Boyes.

Moss Impresses

Green and Moss played patches of really good combined football, but slowness on the ball characterized most of their movements. Moss, apart from scoring the first goal for the Police, went near with several other good efforts.

The halves were very confident, and simply plied the forwards with the ball during the last 25 minutes. Parker was outstanding once again, keeping V. White well under control, and sending Moss away with splendid passes. Brooks and Gough found Elliott, G. White and Jones too fast and tricky in the first period, but later on gave the Kowloon men few opportunities. Brooks had an easy task opposing Knox, the latter player having a decided "off" day.

Blackburn opened very shakily, and mis-kicked dangerously once or twice in the first half, but quickly settled down to play his usual steady game. Chris Pile was well up to form, his speed proving a great help during a Kowloon breakaway. Perkins had little to do, and had no chance with Jones' powerful cross-shot.

Defence Well Tested

Kowloon's defence came through a trying second half ordeal well. Boyes made several good saves, but must thank his good luck that the Police forwards displayed such atrociously bad shooting. Eastman and Morrison were a very sound pair of backs, their quick tackling and first-time clearances continually upsetting the slow-moving Police forwards. Davies and Gilchrist put in a lot of good work in the defence, and gave their forwards many good passes. The passing throughout of the Kowloon players was far more accurate than that of the Police, and if Knox had been up to form, goals might have materialised. As it was he wasted good chances by wildly kicking outside, with his other forwards well up in position for a centre.

V. White showed speed and enterprise, but his direct efforts usually ended when he reached Chris Pile. Jones played his usual good game, and worked well in bringing the ball up to the other forwards, but during the last 15 minutes, with G. White off the field, found himself handicapped by having no-one to pass the ball to on the rare occasions he was allowed to get away.

Green's Bad Miss

Kowloon attacked from the first whistle, and Elliott and Jones tested Perkins with good shots. A good run by Moss and a final pass to Green left the latter with a splendid opening, but he shot wide. Continuing to attack, Kowloon went ahead after eight minutes when Jones beat Perkins with a splendid cross-shot.

The Police, taken by surprise at this unexpected reverse, at once retaliated, but it was a sorry tale of missed chances. First Johnston, with only Boyes to beat, hit the upright. Then the Police were awarded a penalty for "hands" against Morrison, and Moss shot straight at Boyes. Eventually, after sustained pressure, Moss made up for his previous lapses, and, following a fast run down the line, out in and shot low into the net, the ball appearing to glance off Morrison.

Just before the interval, Kowloon nearly went ahead, when G. White quickly took the ball out of Perkins' hands, and lobbed into the goalmouth, but the ball was rather luckily scrambled away.

Pile Saves Goal

A good movement between Jones, G. White and Elliott marked the opening of the second half, and Elliott's splendid shot was stopped by Pile. Twice Johnston broke clean through at the other end, but finished up by shooting wide.

TRAGEDY OF MISSED PENALTY

Club's Great Chance Against Athletic

FOUR GOALS SHARED

A very fast and even encounter was witnessed at the Valley yesterday when the Club and the Athletic played to a draw, sharing four goals.

After 10 minutes the Athletic opened the scoring with a good goal obtained by Lo Wai Kuen, who, receiving from Tse Tor Liu on the wing, beat Payne with a high shot.

From a good solo effort by Tse Tor Liu down the wing the Athletic scored their second goal; he sent the ball across the centre of the goalmouth for Lo Wai Kuen to give Payne no chance with the shot he sent in. The Club reduced their deficit shortly before the interval, Duncan scoring a very good goal.

On the resumption play continued to be keenly and evenly contested, and after 10 minutes the Club obtained the equaliser. Fowler took the ball down, and, following an interchange of position, received from Duncan to net with a good shot in the corner.

With both defences on top from this stage, the forwards were unable to make much headway, but a golden opportunity came to the Club in the way of a penalty kick. Duncan took the spot kick and netted, but the goal was disallowed by the referee owing to Fowler having run forward whilst the ball was being kicked. With his second attempt Duncan sent the ball wide. Club:—Payne; Raitton, Binnie; Hopkins, Forrow, Bitter; Fowler; Fisher, Duncan, Stephens and Killybuck. Athletic:—Li Kwok-kei; Tong Kwang-wing, Chau Shu-chuen; Chau Shu-nan, To Ho-hong, To Ki-chai; Tse Tor-lu, Chow Yiu-ching, Lo Wai-kuen, Au Kiu-fung and Liu Yim-tong.

GUNNERS LEAVE IT LATE

Their Only Three Goals In Last 15 Minutes

A very disappointing game was witnessed at the Valley yesterday when the Royal Artillery encountered and defeated the Eastern Athletic by three clear goals.

Having practically all the play throughout the seventy minutes, it was not until fifteen minutes from the final whistle that the Gunners were able to score, and then the remaining two goals came in quick succession.

From a shot by Leach which rebounded off the keeper Sparkes made no mistake in netting from about three yards out. This opened the game up a little, and goals came in quick succession in the last fifteen minutes, Leach scoring the second goal, and Sparkes obtaining the third.

Eastern:—Ng Chee-nam; Lai Ting-choi, Fung Yiu-wai; Ng Ying-kay, Yung Lok-chi, Lau Kim-fai; Lok Fuh-wah, Kwok Ying-wai, Fung Chai-po, Sung Nung-shing and Lee Bing-tong. Artillery:—MacKrell, Price, Yeal, Worthington, Hunt, Fisher, Rivers, Brown, Sparkes, Leach and Taylor.

The Police kept Kowloon pinned in their own half practically throughout the second half, and did everything but score. Their slowness, inaccurate passing and shooting, and generally poor ball control, was in stark contrast to their display of only a week ago.

A good movement on the right, gave Jones a good chance, and he scored with a hard drive into the corner, but was adjudged offside. Green and Moss worked the ball right down into the Kowloon goal-arena, and the final pass left Johnston with an open goal, but once more he missed the chance.

A few minutes later, Boyes made a good save from a hard shot by Moss, and Tommy Pile gave him some anxious moments with shots which went very close.

Eventually the Police took the lead, when Stephens sent in a long shot which rebounded off the upright, and Johnston ran in to tap the ball into an empty goal.

The Police, as a team, were far below last week's form, and will have to show a decided improvement in next week's Shield encounter to qualify for the succeeding round.

Kowloon:—Boyes; Eastman, Morrison; Davies, Pile, Gilchrist, V. White, Elliott, G. White, Jones and Knox. Police:—Perkins, Blackburn, C. Pile, Brooks, Johnston, Green and Moss.

HONG KONG BEAT KOWLOON

Annual Schoolboys' Encounter

Islanders Too Fast

The Annual Charity Cup match between the Kowloon Schoolboys and Hong Kong Schoolboys resulted in a win for the latter by the convincing margin of 4 goals to 1.

The Hong Kong boys proved too fast and their passing and general quickness on the ball had the Kowloon boys guessing from the start.

A good shot by Goh Keung-kui just skimmed the upright in the opening minute, and immediately after Chow passed to Souza who made no mistake with a splendid high shot, which gave Xavier no chance. Hong Kong did not hold their lead for long, however, as from the kick-off the Kowloon boys went right down for Gottsche to obtain the equaliser, after Valeco had failed to clear.

Play was fast and interesting, the ball travelling from goal to goal, both "keepers" being called upon on numerous occasions. During these opening exchanges, Valeco appeared rather shaky, but settled down to play a really splendid game, making many fine saves.

Goh Keung-kui and Chow then worked the ball down well in a short-passing movement but Chow shot over from only five yards out, spilling a promising opening, continuing to hold the upper hand. Hong Kong eventually went ahead with two quick goals.

Two Quick Goals

The first came from Chow who seized an opportunity to send in a good shot which Xavier could not reach, and the second was scored by Goh Keung-kui with another splendid shot.

No further score was registered before the interval and in the early part of the second half, Kowloon, playing Alves at outside-left, enjoyed most of the play, but failed to get the ball past Valeco. The Hong Kong backs To Kai-chui and Houli, were splendid during these onslaughts, their tackling and clearing proving in the end too sound for the Kowloon forwards.

A good chance was thrown away when Silva shot wildly over from a free-kick a few yards outside the area.

Both teams appeared tired towards the end and it was not until the last few minutes that Hong Kong obtained their fourth and final goal. Goh Keung-kui sent in a good long shot which took Xavier completely by surprise.

Disheartened by this further reverse Kowloon boys were content to keep Hong Kong out and an interesting game came to an end with Hong Kong still presiding.

At the conclusion the cup was

TO-DAY'S LEAGUE SOCCER CLASH AT CAROLINE HILL

LEADERS' HOPES JEOPARDISED

RECREIO'S BIG CHALLENGE

South China "A" will have to produce their very best form to-day if they are to stave off defeat at the hands of the Recreio in their First Division League soccer classic on the Caroline Hill ground.

The Recreio, although lying far from the top of the table, are a formidable proposition, especially in attack, and have won their last three encounters on the South China ground.

This season they are a far better team than last, and the odds are that they may again seriously jeopardise the League leaders' chances of capturing the League championship.

Saints' Better Attack

St. Joseph's who clash with the Navy at Causeway Bay, are fielding one of their strongest combinations this season, Rocha, improving the forward line at inside-left.

The Navy, however, are expected to record a clear cut victory in view of their much improved form.

A good, clean game of soccer should be witnessed on the Club ground where the East Lanes are being entertained by the Athletic.

In the Second Division, the Navy are expected to take both points from the Lincolns.

The following is to-day's programme, giving the favoured teams in capital letters.

FIRST DIVISION

S. CHINA "A" v. Recreio (Caroline Hill, 4 p.m.).

St. Joseph's v. Navy (Navy ground, 4 p.m.).

Athletic v. East Lanes (Club, 4 p.m.).

SECOND DIVISION

Lincolns v. Navy (Chatham Rd., 2.30 p.m.).

THIRD DIVISION

Railway v. Lincolns (Railway, 2.30 p.m.).

R.A.S.C. v. Fusiliers (Sookunpo, 2.30 p.m.).

In the second half, the Rest were deprived of the services of D. A. Copplin, who left the field with a minor head injury, received when he attempted to bundle McGilchrist into touch.

This resulted in Burrows being taken out of the pack and transferred to the Rest's right-wing three-quarter position. This was also the means of further lightening the pack, but, in spite of this reverse, they managed to hold the Interporters throughout.

Cumming and Garrod were again outstanding for the Rest, particularly the former.

Getsam Shines

Getsam, on the Rest's right wing, played a very good game, and, together with Loxham, was the means of preventing several break-aways down the centre of the field.

The scoring was very heavy, and inside of the first ten minutes the Club had twice crossed the Rest's line through Archer for McLellan to add the goal points.

McGilchrist (McLellan converted), Archer, Hutchison, Bradford, added further points before Getsam went over for the Rest. McGilchrist (McLellan converted), Lam-mert (McLellan converted), then scored for the Colony team, and Rowlandson reduced the arrears. McGilchrist scored the final try which McLellan converted.

Miss V. Bradbury, on the right-wing, also played an improved game and had hard luck on a number of occasions when in the circle. Another junior player who showed improvement was Miss L. Hicky, at right-half. Her passing is more accurate and her tackling is very steady. She supported Miss E. Thomson, her centre-half, very well.

For the losers Miss G. White, right-back, and Miss E. Landalt, left-half, were the outstanding players. Both played steady defensive game, and were seen attempting to get their forward line moving.

Miss Blumenthal, Mrs. Kayll, Miss Banker (Saints) and Miss Blumenthal were the scorers in that order.

MAMAK HOCKEY WIN FOR SIGNALS

Parthian Lose By 5 Clear Goals

BUTTERY'S OUTSTANDING GAME

A very scrappy Mamak hockey tournament match was seen on the U.S.R.C. ground on Friday, when the Royal Corps of Signals defeated H.M.S. Parthian by five clear goals.

Buttery, the Corps' right-half, played the best game on the field, stopping attack after attack and feeding his forwards with neat and accurate passes. His only fault was that he was inclined to work into the centre and obstruct Dilley, the centre-half.

Martin, at right-back, played a much improved game, his hitting was better timed and his accuracy was good.

Dilley Impressive

The whole of the half-back line combined well, and were responsible for Marsh's easy time in goal. Dilley at centre-half was far too good for Asker, the naval leader, and held him at every movement. He was very well supported by Buttery and Mills.

May, on the right-wing, played a very fast game, but his hitting was erratic and he bungled many of his opportunities. He was very unlucky not to obtain a "hat trick" for after scoring two neat goals, he was presented with an open goal, but was too slow and was bundled off the ball by Smith, the Parthian's right-half.

Good Understanding

Many neat movements were seen by the three inside forwards, Farrell, Addis and Austin. Their understanding was perfect, and they made spectacular runs from one end of the field to the other, only to fall at the crucial moment.

Austen was well-supported by Larking on the left-wing, the latter being very fast and centring well.

The naval custodian, Mackinstry, made some very good saves, but failed to withstand the terrific onslaught, levelled at him.

The defence was very erratic, and "stake" was frequent.

Cox, the Parthian pivot, was the only player to show good form.

In the first half, the Signals' forwards were seen in several dazzling inter-passing bouts, during which Austin opened the scoring. This was followed by goals from Addis and Farrell.

In the second half May twice broke through the Parthian attack to add further points.

The teams were: Signals: Marsh, Martin, Hodges, Buttery, Dilley, Mills, May, Farrell, Addis, Austin and Larking. Parthian: Mackinstry, Holmwood, Trotter, Smith, Cox, Gibling, Orouch, Harvie, Asker, Miles and Print.

RIGHT-WING HOCKEY-PROBLEM

TO-DAY'S FINAL TRIAL

BIG TEST FOR GONSALVES

(By "ONLOOKER")

Several positional changes have been made in the Interport Trial hockey teams for this morning's encounter on the Y.M.C.A. ground, King's Park, when the Probables will meet the Possibles, commencing at 10.30 a.m., sharp.

In the absence of Lieut. Comdr. Newsom from the Probables' pivot position, Dulla Singh, the Army's brilliant centre-half, will fill the vacancy, while Kartar Singh, also of the Army eleven, will fill the gap at inside-left, caused by Fitt. Lieut. Lascelles' inability to play, there by completing the Army left-wing combination.

G. Sommer, who gave a splendid display at left-half for the Club against the Navy on Friday, will lead the Possibles' intermediate line, while Gonsalves, of the Recrelo, will support him on the left in place of Kalwant Singh. The latter has been moved up into the inside-left vacancy as the result of Kartar Singh being transferred to the Probables' team.

The teams are fairly evenly matched with the Probables having, perhaps, a faster forward line.

I do not consider Mackay good enough for the right-wing position, for, although he has the speed required, he lacks stick-work and hitting power.

Fowler's Opportunity

On the Possibles' side, S. Fowler, the most deserving candidate for the right-wing berth, makes his first appearance in the trials, and I am fully confident that, provided he is given the ball, he will make good use of his opportunity.

I still have in mind the Civilian's trial held almost a month ago when Fowler rarely saw the ball, and was passed over because he had nothing to show to justify his inclusion in the Combined Civilian team.

The re-uniting of Kartar Singh and Lal Singh on the Probables' left wing should account for several goals, for I am not too confident in Gonsalves, and am sure that he has not the stamina to hold up the Punjab's left-wing.

The players are advised to be on the ground at 10.15 a.m., so as to be prepared to start at 10.30 a.m. sharp.

Messrs. G. T. Palmer and A. E. P. Guest will referee.

Probables (In White):—Hollingsworth (Lincoln); Majeek (Artillery) and E. V. Reed (Club); W. A. Reed (Club); Dulla Singh (Army); and Alf Din (Punjab); Mackay (Club); Garthwaite (Artillery); Garbhan Singh (K.I.T.C.); Kartar Singh (Punjab) and Lal Singh (Punjab).

Possibles (In Colours):—J. B. Souza (Radio); A. M. Rodriguez (Recrelo) and Khan Bahadur (Punjab); Parker (Police); G. Sommer (Club) and J. Gonsalves (Recrelo); S. Fowler (Y.M.C.A.); Divett (Club); Avtar Singh (Radio); Kalwant Singh (Radio) and T. J. Price (Y.M.C.A.).

Farmer, the "Y" pivot, was the most outstanding player on the field. S. Fowler was another of the "Y" players to shine—he played at centre forward, in the absence of W. J. Brown. The best player for the Medway was Cox, at left-half.

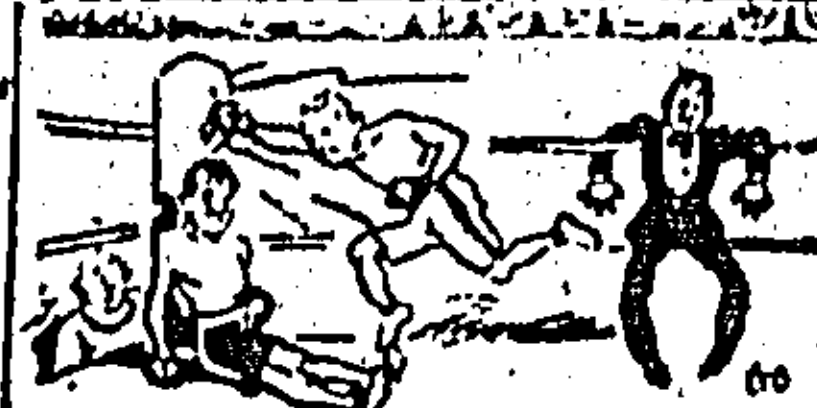

At the commencement the Medway held the upper hand and it was not long before they scored through Nicholson. Not until near the end did Turner add the second.

After half time the Naval team soon gained the upper hand again and scored their third goal through Nicholson.

Shortly before the final whistle the "Y" made a very determined attack, during which Farmer scored.

MAMAK HOCKEY DINNER CANCELLED

Notification has been received from Mr. P. J. Barlow, Hon. Secretary of the Mamak Hockey Tournament, that owing to a lack of response from affiliated Clubs, the Mamak Dinner, arranged for January 20 at the Peninsula Hotel, has been cancelled.

him off his feet and very nearly had him counted out, but he staggered to his feet just in time, and, going into an immediate clinch, hung on grimly, covering up while Olliver rained a battery of blows at him.

The third round saw a remarkable recovery. Olliver, evidently tired, now became the target for Watson's blows, and the latter made no mistake, finding Olliver's jaw and solar plexus with several well-timed punches.

Referee's Tribute

Olliver staggered and fell to the boards, dragged himself up just in time to be prevented from being counted out, and then took a terrific right which again sent him crashing to the boards. He recovered a third time amidst a terrific burst of applause from the spectators, but could not keep his feet, the referee awarding the fight to Watson, at the same time congratulating Olliver on a very game display.

The Middleweight Championship came to a very disappointing end, for after Dawson, of the Duches, and Peterson, of the Hermes, had entered the final, it was announced that owing to a mishap, Peterson had conceded a walk-over to Dawson.

The Welterweight Championship brought Barry, of the Berwick, into the limelight in one of the fastest bouts seen locally.

Huckfield's Pluck

He easily won his first round encounter against A. B. Huckfield of the Defender, who, in spite of being badly battered, came back for some more and was heartily congratulated by the referee on a very game and plucky display. In the other semi-final Bennett beat Appleby, the conqueror of Max-Brika, the German welterweight.

The final of this event produced some very good boxing, both Barry and Bennett mixing it freely in the third and last round, after fighting cautiously in the first two. Barry's lefts and rights were like sledgehammers, although at times his hands never moved six inches. He was a worthy winner.

Prandy's Easy Win

In the final, Prandy had the better of Lewis throughout, although the latter forced the fight in the opening stages with several bulldog rushes which were met with a battering straight left straight from the shoulder.

Last night's results were: Lightweight Championship: (First Round):—Mae Olliver (Adventure) beat A. B. Winterton (Defender) on points. Final:—O. S. Watson (Bye into Final) (Defender) beat Hine Olliver on a technical knockout.

Middleweight Championship: (First Round):—A. B. Dawson (Duches) beat O. S. O'Brien (Berwick) on points. A. B. Peterson (Hermes) beat S. Knight (Berwick) on points. Final:—A. B. Dawson was awarded a walk-over by A. B. Peterson.

Welterweight Championship: (First Round):—A. B. Bennett (Diana) beat A. B. Appleby (Medway) on points. A. B. Barry (Berwick) beat A. V. Huckfield (Defender) on points. Final:—A. B. Barry beat A. B. Bennett on points.

Lightweight Championship: (First Round):—Boy Nicholson (Hermes) beat S. Lendall (Adventure) on points. A. B. Hester (Berwick) was given a walk-over from Cpl. Fitzgerald (Kent). Final:—Boy Nicholson beat A. B. Hester on points.

Featherweight Championship: (First Round):—A. B. Prandy (Kent) knocked-out A. B. O'Brien (Berwick) on points. A. B. Newell (Diana) in the first round. Final:—A. B. Prandy beat A. B. Lewis (Bye into Final) on points.

LEAGUE AND REFUGEES IMMEDIATE ATTENTION DEMANDED

EVACUATION OF POLICE FORCE TO START ON FEBRUARY 1

Geneva, Yesterday.

The French memorandum regarding the Saar refugees holds that the League of Nations is morally responsible for the safety of those whom the League have governed during the past 15 years, and asks if the cost of their removal and resettlement will be borne by League funds. It suggests that the question be placed on the agenda for the next session of the Council.

An earlier message stated that the League of Nations' Council has decided that the evacuation of the international Saar Police force will begin on February 1, the Italian troops leaving first.—Reuter.

RED RAIN DELUGE IN AUSTRALIA

SWELTERING HOT NIGHT

Melbourne.

North-Western Victoria which escaped the disastrous floods that swept over the southern district of the State in November, was inundated late last month by a deluge of red dust rain that did considerable damage.

It was a sweltering hot night with the barometer registering 100 degrees when the storm broke, wrecking buildings and carrying away roofs.

At Saint Arnaud the roof of the power house was carried away and the supply cut off. At Werrimull a 100-ft. chimney crashed down on to the town hall. At Talbot roofs were smashed and out-buildings blown down. At Mildura communications were cut off.

The red rain, which is caused by dust impregnated with condensation, fell in Melbourne at 3 o'clock in the morning.

COWBOY LASSED BY COW

NEARLY CHOKED TO DEATH

Hobart (Tasmania).

Jack Folder, a 15-year-old farmer's son, borrowed a rope and went out to lasso a cow.

After fastening the rope round his waist and swinging it above his head he let go the rope and caught the cow round the horns.

The cow tossed her head. The knot tightened.

Another toss, and the boy was pulled off his feet.

The rope slipped from his waist to his neck.

He was dragged around by the neck till he nearly choked. Then the cow attacked him. Now he is in hospital.

5,000 Proposals For Mae West In A Year

Hollywood.

Miss Mae West gets more proposals of marriage than any other film star in Hollywood.

Her secretaries stopped counting them a long time ago, but they estimate that 5000 is about the annual average.

The latest one was from a man in North Carolina, who wrote: "I have only $400,000 and I admire you immensely—so let's get hitched."

A postscript added: "Don't go on any diet."

Ginger Rogers, unlike Miss West, keeps a record of her proposals. She has had 255 since

Fortune Teller Sees His Fate In A Crystal

"LAST SUPPER" IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Friday.

Lui Tze-fund made no much money out of fortune-telling that he thought he would tell his own.

So he got out his crystal and gazed into it.

He saw he would die a few days later.

Controlling his fear, he invited all his friends to a party, and divided his property among them, reserving only $18 for funeral expenses.

The next day he died suddenly, as he had foretold.

AVALANCHE "WAR"

Bombs And Guns Used By Swiss Railwaymen

THREATENING SNOW MASSES

St. Moritz.

Heavy gunfire and the thud of falling avalanches have been starting the peasants of the Engadine valley in the Swiss mountains.

"War" has been declared against avalanches—at the request of the Bernina Mountain Railway Company.

Last March, the month in which avalanches usually fall, two railway men were killed when they rushed down the line to warn an oncoming train that an avalanche was falling. They saved the train, but were crushed to death by the avalanche.

Part of the railway line was diverted to avoid a similar accident—but the authorities felt it might be possible to bring down loose masses of snow by gunfire and bombs.

Experiments have been made in the presence of high army officers and representatives of the Swiss Federal Council.

The best results were produced by bombs. In future Bernina railwaymen are to be supplied with bomb-throwing machines. With these, they will keep the mountain slopes free from threatening masses of snow.

TO PAY WIFE PENNY A WEEK

From £270 A Year To 17/6 A Week

Theodore Lionel Callender, of the Soldiers' Home, Buckingham-gate, S.W., who applied to the Southern magistrates for the variation of a wife maintenance order said that as a result of a summons being served upon him he had lost his £270-a-year position with the Hospitals Savings Association.

All he had now was his war pension of 17s. 6d. a week. His wife had a private income of £306 a year.

The Bench reduced the order and told Callender to pay his wife a penny a week and his child 1s. 6d.

MR. LANSBURY'S APT COMPARISON

"If another great war broke out," said Mr. Lansbury, M.P., in a speech at Hammersmith, "we should spend in a week what it would cost to give adequate pensions to everyone at sixty for a year."

CARY GRANT'S WIFE PAWNS RING

Film Star Sued For Maintenance

Los Angeles.

Cary Grant, the he-man of American screen dramas, has been ordered by the superior court here to pay U.S.$870 monthly and U.S.$2,500 on account to his wife, Miss Virginia Cherrill, the film actress, who has filed a suit asking for separate maintenance.

The money is to be paid to Miss Cherrill's lawyers pending the trial of the suit.

Miss Cherrill gave evidence that she had only received U.S.$125 from her husband during the last ten weeks.

She said that she had had to pawn her engagement ring and wrist watch and borrow money on her car in order to pay her living expenses.

Mrs. Grant, who has been estranged from her husband for several months, is charging him with extreme cruelty. She estimates his earnings at U.S.$5,000 a month.

MEMORANDUM ISSUED

Geneva, Yesterday.

The Council's procedure concerning the Italo-Abyssinian and Iraq Persian frontier questions has been agreed upon, but both will be adjourned to enable the Council to conclude the session to-day.—Reuter.

London, Yesterday.

The text of the Abyssinian Government's memorandum on the Italo Abyssinian frontier incidents which was issued at Geneva yesterday, is based on article XI paragraph II of the Covenant of the League of Nations, and requests that the matter be placed on the Council agenda.

In pursuance of the British Government's efforts to use their good offices with both sides to ameliorate a crisis, Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal and leading British delegate at the Council meeting, together with M. Pierre Laval, French Foreign Minister, had private meeting with Baron Aloisi, foremost Italian diplomat of the day, yesterday.

Geneva press messages state that it is hoped that it will at least prove possible to prevent any hasty action and a postponement of the consideration of the matters until the next session of the League Council is contemplated.—British Wireless Service.

PAUL ROBESON ON HIS FUTURE

"Tired Of Burden Of My Race"

WORK TO BE DONE FIRST

Mr. Paul Robeson, after having attained an honoured position in the world of drama and music, has grown tired of Western society, and is looking forward to the time when he can go to live among his own people in some remote part of Africa.

"In England I have found perfect freedom and peace," he said in London, "but it has not been so with my friends—companions of my own race. Where I am welcomed they are not."

"I am tired of the burden of my race, which will be with me so long as I remain here. I must cast it from me and go to live where I belong."

"Some day I shall go. Not yet; I have work to do here. I am proud of my own race."

"I am learning African dialects and while I still have work to do here I hope to pay visits to Africa at least once a year to mix among the people who mean more than anything else to me."

NURSERY SCHOOLS IMPORTANCE OF FIRST SEVEN YEARS

Freedom To Act In Their Own Natural Way

(By Phyllis Juby)

A YOUNG child needs the constant companionship of other children. Among themselves, children work out their fantasies more freely, and get concrete social experience on their own level. The nursery school is most valuable, for there the young child, from one to seven years, is left to do things in his own way, within the limits of physical safety. A fatal adult habit is to regard the very young child as merely a physical being with no mind and intelligence, and then suddenly, when he reaches the age of four or five, to assume that he is a responsible being and able to live up to our personal standards and customs. Children do not need our sympathy and affection, but our intelligence in trying to understand their mental growth.

Freedom Of Movement

The fundamental aim of the nursery school is to give the child as many opportunities for free movement as possible. The child of two gets great fun from his own movements and sounds. As he develops, he derives pleasure from coloured ribbons, flowers, bricks of different sizes, and bright woollen balls. But it is not only the discovery of the actual colours, forms and sounds that give him joy, but the idea of space, wonder and expectation that they bring. He is beginning to think with his limbs: his playing is growth. He needs enough space to enjoy perfect freedom of movement almost as much as he needs food and air; space to run and dance, to express his natural rhythmic impulse, and to discover through movement.

This rhythm is the essence of the child throughout his first years. His singing, dancing, running, building, and drawing are his delight, as long as they are free and spontaneous. But as soon as the child becomes conscious of compulsion, the essence of joy and natural movement goes out of his creation and stiffness enters. This is as much a part of Chinese children as European. Accompanied by the usual teacher, their drawing, dancing and singing is stiff and forced. It is only as long as they are free to do their own way that their play is a natural creation. In their own rhythm they express freely just what they feel. That is why the work of these children is so strikingly fresh and individual. The young Chinese child especially has an innate feeling for colour and grace of movement.

Make-Believe Natural In Children

On the other hand, the feeling of inferiority can be very strong in young children even if only on account of their smallness and weakness. That is why pretence and fantasy are so necessary to all healthy children in their play. It is their will to power; their way to adventure and hard-won wisdom. But as children develop they need more than fantasy: they may be helped to realise by being offered every stimulus to effort and creation. Not only should they have lawns to run and dance on, but a spacious garden where there are trees to climb and birds to sing with; where they can each have a small plot of ground to cultivate in their own way; where they can keep animals, and so come into contact with the creation of life at an early age when their curiosity is keenest. Such a garden is no longer the sole privilege of the rich; it is the most important part of every well organised nursery school. The interior may be no less stimulating: small tables and chairs to suit the child's sense of play; collective nurseries of colour and design as rhythmic as the child himself; toy cupboards as long as the walls, with blackboard doors and abundance of coloured chalks.

In such an atmosphere, positive achievement is possible and natural. The child constructs; he begins to have his construction preserved; he can then understand that he must respect the construction of others. He is realising that the products of labour are valuable, and that the private property of individual effort must be socially respected.

Rules And Discipline

There must be rules and discipline. Children must not interfere with each other, and no child must have more than one sort of apparatus at a time. But that is all part of the game, and can come spontaneously, just as the sense of justice is developed, without any idea of compulsion. Spontaneity is happiness in a child; and happiness in childhood is, in itself, the development of a healthy mind. It is not difficult to help the child to health and joy.

Children have greatly receptive memories, and so they have a tendency to be satisfied with words and phrases without understanding them. The power of thinking with words develops slowly in the child, and words are very often mistaken for knowledge. All his questions should be answered, but simply and directly and with concrete examples the child can understand, and, if possible, see. The child's most vivid understanding comes from his immediate experience of doing and finding out things. It is, for example, only by walking, running, and jumping that the words "far" and "near" gain meaning. Our descriptions and explanations can only serve later to enlarge the child's knowledge and discovery; but they are useless alone. Adults say: "It is so," while the child is seeking to find out for himself. To deride a child's eagerness and desire to explore is to destroy all his initiative—to destroy him. A certain amount of destructiveness in the child himself, however, is quite normal at a very early age. The quick, explosive method of kicking bricks down may then give him more pleasure than building them up. But as the time goes on and he develops, he will utilise everything within his reach to suit his own skill of construction.

The World Fears The Young

To give this freedom to the child is to allow him to live his own life—his own self-interest. It is difficult for most adults, especially parents, because each has his own religion, politics and nationalism, and his dance has become a stiff walk that speaks his ignorance, his fear of emotion, of newness and originality. That is not good enough to pass on. The world clings to the old because it fears the young. It fears that its talk and its preaching are vain and will no longer be necessary; that children might grow up without complexes, and dance freely in a thoroughly healthy love of life. It fears that such a new generation might discard its outworn and decadent morality and accept only health, joy and creation.

Very few people have a gift for dealing with children. Experts in child psychology and education agree that parents are seldom capa-

THE VANISHING ELEPHANT

Masterpiece Of Carter
The Great

MYSTIC PERFORMANCE AT KING'S NEXT WEEK

Carter the Great and his company, who will make their initial appearance in the Colony on Wednesday, at the King's Theatre, have a vast stock of new tricks which local enthusiasts will undoubtedly enjoy.

Chief among these is the "Vanishing Elephant" illusion. As the name suggests, an elephant is made to vanish, and included in Carter's varied accomplishments is a full grown elephant which is carried solely for this purpose. This is likely to be one of the cleverest tricks ever demonstrated in Hong Kong.

The animal is first hoisted on a crane so as to remove all doubts as to trap-doors, etc. from the minds of any fastidious patrons. And then, at the report of a pistol, the elephant vanishes into thin air.

"Do Spirits Return?" is one of the strangest masterpieces of this modern Houdini. In this Carter surprisingly demonstrates the wonder of the occult and the marvels of the spirit cabinet.

"Elongated Chinese Maiden" is another of this skilful illusionist's remarkable tricks. In this case a young lady dressed to represent the Queen of Hearts disappears and reappears at Carter's bidding.

Here are some of the strange things you will see: A woman is most successfully and convincingly shot, but leaves the stage wreathed in smiles. A canary that can fly into lighted electric lamp. Another girl who submits to the apparent inconvenience of having her neck, arms, and legs stretched to two or three times their normal length. "The Elongated Chinese Maiden" and "Cheating the Gallows" are two more inexplicable wonders which add to the excellent entertainment.

POISONED APE TRAGEDY

KEEPER DIES NEXT DAY FROM SHOCK

San Francisco.

Ginger, a giant orang-outang at the San Francisco municipal zoo, died in agony after someone had handed him food containing poison. The animal was worth $1,000, and as strong as several men and as gentle as a baby.

His keeper, Jack Bamberger, died the next day—it is believed from the shock of Ginger's death.

Afterwards the Zoo, superintendent George Distany, went to hospital suffering from "nerves."

ble of understanding their own children. But tell them that and see their horror! They protest against the necessity of sending their children to a nursery school, but are quite content to leave them in the care of an ignorant nurse-maid or amah. The Hong Kong parent who is willing to make a slight concession will speak of "local conditions," and emphasise the fact that her children will be sent "Home" later on; she does not realise that the impressions of his first seven years—his most susceptible years—will be carried with him throughout his life. But despite the strength of opposition, it may be hoped that the nursery school will gain ground in Hong Kong too, for the child who has spent his first years in such an atmosphere of freedom, love and knowledge is on a new way.

MOTERING NOTES - -

ARTIFICIAL PETROL IN S. AFRICA

500,000 Gallons Of Benzol Annually

BY-PRODUCT OF PRETORIA
STEEL WORKS

The highest-grade artificial petrol is being produced in South Africa. The petrol is one of the first fruits of the Pretoria Steel Works by-products plant. Some 500,000 gallons of benzol will be produced annually.

The entire output for a considerable period ahead has already been bought up by a combine including all the big South African oil companies except one according to the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

No price details are yet available, but it is intended to use the benzol for blending with other motor fuels. The supply will be rationed out among the interested firms.

The size of the output of benzol is at present regulated by the coke requirements of the steel plant, but it is expected that production will increase considerably before long.

FOREIGN CARS BANNED IN GERMANY

Representatives of three large American motor concerns who have been negotiating a trading agreement on a reciprocity basis in Berlin have found the terms offered them unacceptable and have left for Geneva to work out plans for liquidating their agencies and plant. The negotiations were opened in an endeavour to overcome the present deadlock under which foreign motor-car companies are virtually unable to sell their cars in Germany.

HEINOUS OFFENCE TO-DAY

"I must have lost my temper," exclaimed a motorist at a recent case tried at Highgate Police Court. "I sounded my horn at a pedestrian." Whereas formerly a pedestrian would always trot out in Court the hackneyed phrase about the motorist not sounding his horn, they are nowadays using as a defence the argument that the sounding of the horn so unnerved them that they bolted like rabbits.

CARTRIDGES NOW FOR GREASE GUNS

As an aid to rapid lubrication, greases in cartridges which fit in special guns to "shoot" them have been introduced in America. To load the gun it is only necessary to insert a factory-charged cartridge of the desired lubricant. The equipment was developed by the Lubrication Corporation, which is jointly owned by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Bendix Company.

"FORTY YARS ON"

"Age before innocence" was the order of the day when 85 veteran cars started on their annual cars started on their annual run to Brighton, 79 arriving within the time limit of seven hours. Many of them were in the neighbourhood of 40 years of age, and had languished on scrap heaps for part of their lifetimes.

WATER ON BRAKES

FREQUENT CAUSE
OF SLIPPING

SOME PRECAUTIONARY HINTS
FOR CAR OWNERS

When a car is being hosed down with a strong jet of water certain precautions should be taken against damage which might result from the water being forced into working parts of the chassis.

It is inadvisable to play the stream too freely on the steering connections, shackles, and brake gear, and if the chassis is due for re-lubrication that duty should be postponed until the car has been washed and cleaned, so that the new grease will force out any moisture which may have entered.

It is also wise to keep both the foot and hand brakes applied during the hosing process; the former can be held "on" by means of a short length of wood placed between the brake pedal and any convenient point, so that the pedal is depressed. If water has penetrated to the brake linings it may be found that when the car is first taken on the road the brakes are dangerously inefficient and do not function well until the moisture has been driven out.

The risk of such a condition arising is greater when the car is hosed down with a high pressure washing plant such as those now used by many service stations. In all circumstances it is wise to test the brakes without delay.

Similarly, if the car is driven in heavy rain and over soaked roads, and there is no call for the use of the brakes, it is nevertheless a prudent practice to apply them from time.

LOW COMPRESSION UNIT

"Diesel Knock" Now
Lessened

Among the new oil engines shown at the Glasgow Motor Show was the Dennis 5.7-litre 4-cylinder low compression unit which develops 95 b.h.p., and embodies the Lanova combustion system. This air cell system results in a condition of turbulence with complete mixing of the fuel and air, so that very efficient combustion is secured. At the same time the maximum pressure exerted on the piston is considerably lower than commonly experienced, so that particularly smooth running and practical elimination of "Diesel knock" are obtained.

An exhibit which attracted a great deal of attention was the working model of an A.E.C.-Ricardo 4-cylinder oil engine. As this model was sectioned, it provided an excellent opportunity of seeing the interior working of an advanced type of C. L. power unit.

ECLIPSE OF THE SIGN

Writing recently in the New York Times, an American woman paid tribute to a gracious and amusing gesture on the part of the Ford Company. When she complained to them by telephone that one of their enormous electric signs on the far bank of the Hudson was spoiling her appreciation of a particularly fine sunset, the current on the sign was promptly turned off until after the sun had completed his "innings."

THE NEW SCORING IDEAS

Slam Premiums And Vulnerability

(By Lt.-Col. H. M. Beasley)

I HAVE received many letters from correspondents with regard to the suggested alterations in scoring. The chief points of interest were:

- (a) The Slam Premiums. Are they too large?
- (b) The Vulnerability Factor. Should it be abolished or retained?

With regard to the slam premiums. Some are of the opinion that the slam premiums, together with other features in the scoring, should be proportionately changed with a view to reducing in toto the size of the average rubber.

Others are of the opinion that the large premiums for slams introduce many thrills into the game, both in the bidding and the play, which would be eliminated if the slam premiums were reduced.

Thrill For Declarer

There is not doubt that it is very satisfactory to a partnership when they have bid and reached a slam contract correctly and it is likewise very thrilling to the declarer to find that he has analysed correctly the distribution of the opposing hands, and in consequence has manipulated a squeeze or end play which was possibly the only method by means of which his contract could have been fulfilled.

There is no doubt that if the slam premiums are reduced and the game premiums remain unchanged the thrill of slam bidding will to a certain extent disappear, as it may not be worth while to risk throwing away a certain game for the possibility of making a slam and a small bonus.

With regard to the vulnerability factor, a correspondent has suggested:

- (a) That neither side should be vulnerable until both sides have made a game, and
- (b) That the penalties for undertricks, when unvulnerable, should be increased.

This suggestion, of course, retains the thrill appertaining to the vulnerability zone, but if introduced would, I think, probably tend to prolong a rubber.

The suggestion that all suits should have the same value appears to meet with general approval.

Several letters also contain a reference to certain points in the play of the cards, especially with regard to the feature known in Bridge parlance as "Ducking," a procedure which can be introduced in two distinct ways.

1. You may find it necessary to permit the opponents to win a trick on an early round of the suit in order that you may subsequently make several other tricks in the suit.

This situation may arise in a No Trump contract, or in a suit contract, after the opponents' trumps have been extracted.

Safety Play

Ducking is especially important in a No Trump contract when you find that the dummy contains a long suit and no re-entry card in any other suit.

For example—the suit may be distributed as follows, A or B:

A. North.	B. North.
A K 8 6 5 3.	A Q 8 6 4.
South.	South.
7 4	9 7 2

In either case it is clear that in whatever manner the remaining

"God, it's somewhere in here!" he blurted. Inevitably his eyes turned back to the motionless form of Cohen. Cohen always carried the key; it never left his person.

Jackson was shaking his head to foot. The mere thought of searching that dead man again brought him near to frenzy. But he forced himself to it.

Convulsive shudders gripped his body; he closed his eyes and bit his lips and moaned with the torture of it. He felt faint and sick with nausea; his hands became sticky again, but he forced himself to complete the search.

He tried to compose himself, but it was futile. The time he had spent here in this room with the dead man seemed an eternity of torture. He had everything plan-cards in the suit are distributed among the opponents' hands, one trick at least must be lost, and the safest way to play the suit to avoid losing more than the one trick, in Case A, is as follows:—

"Lead a small card from South and permit East or West to win the first trick." If the remaining cards in the suit are divided 3 and 2 in the opponents' hands, North will subsequently make the remaining 5 tricks in the suit.

In Case B it will be necessary, in order to make the maximum number of tricks in the suit, to lead a small card from South and finesse the Queen. If this finesse is successful, North must then lead a small card and permit East or West to win the next trick.

Here again, if the cards are divided 3 and 2 between the opponents' hands, North will make the remaining three tricks in the suit.

If the finesse of the Queen is unsuccessful, the same procedure must be adopted when South regains the lead. A small card must again be led and East or West allowed to win the trick.

Case 2.—There are also instances in a suit or No Trump contract where you may find it essential to duck—that is to say, lose a trick in order to prevent one or other of the adversaries from subsequently obtaining the lead.

There may be two reasons for adopting this procedure:—

1. To prevent an adversary who holds certain winning cards from obtaining the lead, and
2. To prevent an adversary from obtaining the lead when you know that he will be able to lead through certain high cards which you may hold, and when you consider that the remaining high cards in the suit may be most unfavourably situated.

For example—If spades are trumps and you have extracted all the trumps from East and West's hands, it may be essential for you to prevent East from getting in and leading a heart through your King.

The situation is as follows (North to lead):—

North	South
S—9	S—A 10 5 3
H—7 4 2	H—K 6
D—K 7	D—A 4
C—A 10 9 6 4	C—K 8 3

In order to try and prevent East from obtaining the lead, you should lead a small club from North, and, if East plays a small card, South should play the 8 and permit West to win this trick.

If East plays either the Queen or Jack, South must take this trick with the King of clubs, and subsequently take the risk of finessing through the ace, ten, or of playing the ace on the second round, in the hope that East holds the Queen, Jack only. If West holds three to the Queen, East cannot get the lead, and in either case your objective is obtained.

Obviously, if East holds the Queen, Jack, and a small club, no method of play can prevent East from making a trick in the suit and consequently obtaining the lead.

ned. He had the jewels in his pocket. All he had to do was get out and escape... get out of here! get out of here! The words echoed over and over in his hot brain, a maddening rhythm.

He had to find that key.

It was not on Cohen. It had to be somewhere else. It was somewhere in the room—he was sure of it. He began to search again. He crawled around the floor on his hands and knees, mumbling, cursing, swearing he would find it. His mind reeled. His lungs burned, his heart hammered, and his brain rang with that mocking phrase:

"Get out of here..."

He grasped the knob of the door; twisted it, pushed it. He hammered on the steel plates with his fist. He began to sob. Tears of rage streamed down his face. He stared around again with blurred eyes. He began crawling the floor again, searching—searching.

"God—I've got to get out of here!"

Beyond the window panes were stout iron bars.

Beneath the floor, above the ceiling were thick concrete. Outside—freedom. And the door, the impenetrable door, the door could not be opened without the key...

It was the sound of breaking glass that first attracted the attention of a policeman. Then he heard a loud thumping, and muffled cries. When he located them he forced an entry into the outer room.

A strained weak voice came to him.

"Oh, God, let me out! Let me out!"

The policeman brought aid, and together tried breaking down the door with axes. When that failed they brought in an oxy-acetylene lamp, and cut out the lock.

When it fell away they found a dazed, wild-eyed young man crouched on the floor, rubbing his hands with a handkerchief, backing away from them fearfully.

"I did it! I did it! Just take me out of here!"

At the police-station they questioned him, as best they could. They heard him mumble madly, over and over again. When at last, he was put safely into a cell, he was still muttering something about the key.

The policeman entered the Inspector's office, holding in his hand a key.

"It's the key he was looking for."

"Where did you find it?"

"What I think is, sir, Jackson missed the first time he fired at Cohen, and Cohen struggled. He must have had the key in his hand. Now, I don't know whether he did it consciously or not but we found the key in Jackson's coat."

"Then all the while he searched it was in his own pocket?" asked the Inspector.

"Yes, sir, it was well planned, but he overlooked Fate, sir."

THE END.

ELIZABETH ALLAN "SEPARATED" FROM HER HUSBAND

Sequel To Enforced Absences

CHARLES RAY SUES

Los Angeles.

Miss Elizabeth Allan, the Skegness girl whose work in British films secured her a big Hollywood contract and who was in "The Outcast Lady," has disclosed that she and her husband, Mr. William O'Brien, have decided to separate. The reason, said Miss Allan, was that her film work in Hollywood and Mr. O'Brien's interests as a London theatrical agent, resulted in long enforced absences from each other.

She married in June, 1922.

Cruelty And Desertion

Charges of cruelty, desertion and non-support have been brought by Mrs. Charles Ray against her husband, the famous film star of silent days, in her divorce suit.

They have been married 10 years. Charles Ray was one of the leading stars of the screen in the early days of the film and until the early part of the last decade. Then his portrayals—usually of young, simple and honest youths—fell out of favour during the "jazz era."

He lost a fortune when he attempted to produce films on his own account, and he has recently been acting in small parts for a moderate salary in Hollywood, in the hope of making a "come-back."

Grief-Stricken Woman Sleeps For 24 Years

Johannesburg.

After sleeping for nearly 24 years, Miss Anna Swanepoel, aged 44, has returned to consciousness.

When she was 20 she became engaged to a young man, but her father forbade her to marry him, and in despair he took his life.

Hysterical with sorrow, Miss Swanepoel fell into a cataleptic trance. For eleven years she did not recover consciousness at all, and when in 1921 she did awake it was for only a short while.

There have been brief periods of semi-consciousness since, but it was only last month that she became fully conscious.

Doctors, fearing that she would relapse, made efforts to inspire in her a desire to live.—Central News.

Miss Patricia Maguire, aged 29, of Chicago, after sleeping for two years and nine months, regained consciousness on December 4, but she went to sleep again a few minutes afterwards and has not yet awakened.

CHARITY CONCERT AT LEE THEATRE

Excellent All-Round
Programme
BISHOP HALL PRESIDES

A large crowd packed the Lee Theatre last night when a variety concert, which proved a great success, was held under the distinguished patronage of Lady Southern, O.B.E., in aid of the building fund of Holy Trinity Church.

The Right Reverend Bishop R. O. Hall presided and made a brief speech, which was translated into Chinese, during the short interval. The overture was well rendered by the Chinese Orchestral Society. An acrobatic display by A. Ma and Company was the opening item on the programme.

Just before the interval Mr. Wan Wan San, a magician who has earned the title of "Cigarette King" gave an excellent exhibition of magic. This was followed by a dance by Miss Ng, and a flute solo by Mr. C. K. Wong, who was accompanied by Mr. C. Leung.

Mr. C. Dudley Bartlett rendered three piano solos, and two songs, "O Lovely Night" and "The Serenade" were sung by Mrs. Lum. Just before the conclusion Mr. Conrado de la Cruz, accompanied by Mr. Bartlett gave a violin solo which was one of the best musical items on the programme.

An excellent evening's entertainment ended with a two-act comedy. Among those present were: The Right Reverend Bishop R. O. Hall, Mrs. Blackett, Miss Jennings, Mr. H. S. P. Heywood, Rev. N. C. Hayward, Dr. Nash, Mrs. Ma Ying, Mr. Dr. Arthur Woo, Mrs. Ma Wing Chan, Mrs. Kwok Kwal, Mr. Kou Tat Choi, Rev. Lee Kau Yan, Mr. C. D. Bartlett, Rev. Chung Yau Lap and Rev. Teang Kai Ngok.

A successful Jumble sale, which realised $144, was held by the staff of the Diocesan Girls' School, in the school hall, yesterday afternoon.

The weather was extremely hot, but the fiercest attacks were launched by both sides from the commencement.

An early thrill was provided when Boughton, the England full-back, was beaten by the bounce of the ball and Wooller, the Welsh schoolboy sensation, crossed over for a try but the referee had already blown his whistle for an infringement.

Half-time arrived with no score. WALES SCORES FIRST. The tackling was as fierce as ever on the resumption, and 5 minutes from the restart the English pack wheeled in a tight scrum, but the ball came out on the Welsh side for Powell to sling out a long pass to Cliff Jones who made considerable ground before sending Wooller over for an unconverted try.

With only a few minutes left the Welsh forwards were penalised for offside in their own 25, and Boughton landed a penalty goal to level the scores.

Boughton and Crammer (England) and Wooller and Cliff Jones (Wales) were the outstanding players in the respective sides.—Renter.

A crowd of 70,000 saw the two teams presented to H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, who made his first public appearance since his return from Paris.

On returning to his cabin some four hours later Kwok discovered his valise missing, and an immediate search led to the discovery of the missing article in a bathroom, but with the contents rifled. His friends in Hong Kong have remitted him $20, which he should receive at Thursday Island.

England, the holders of the Amateur International Cup, beat Wales last year at Bangor by 5 goals to 3, and Ireland at Lifford by 4 clear goals. They, however, lost to Scotland at Glasgow by the odd goal in five.

Out of a total of 23 encounters played against Wales, England have won 20, lost 1 and drawn 2.
